Faure May Ask Confidence Vote on Policy

Modern Republicanism Is Called for by Javits

Urges State Lean Toward Ike's Policy

Watertown, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits has called on New York state Republicans to develop President Eisenhower's "doctrine of modern Republicanism" at the state level.

"The party now must decide immediately whether it is for President Eisenhower, the man, alone, or the policies and principles the President has proposed for the party," Javits declared last night.

ADDRESSING a dinner of the Jefferson county Republican committee, Javits said he believed that GOP success in 1956 would depend on "the party being for the Eisenhower principles."

Javits, the only Republican victor in last year's state elections, said that with the President's illness the party faced its greatest challenge since the battle for the presidential nomination in 1952.

Javits' remarks were made against a background of speculation that Eisenhower, because of his recent heart attack, would not seek reelection in 1956.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL said there were seven fields in which the President's policies could be developed at the state level. He listed them as:

"Health care, especially for the unemployed, aged and indigent, by aid to voluntary and cooperative medical care plans.

"School construction,

"Improved higher educational facilities, including scholarship,

"A modern highway and motor-vehicle program,

"A state farm program,

"A stepped up attack on juvenile delinquency . . ., and "the creation of economic conditions in terms of a tax structure, adequate transportation like roads, adequate housing and community facilities and model employer-employe relations that will help keep business from leaving the state as well as attract new business here."

JAVITS ASSERTED that Eisenhower had given the Republican party "a new doctrine, the doctrine of modern Republicanism."

He added:

"This modern concept combines Lincoln's doctrine of the free working man and the party's traditional fight for free enterprise."

Javits' comments were interpreted as new indication that the New York State Republican leadership planned to lean heavily on Eisenhower's record and personal popularity in 1956, whether or not he should seek a second term.

Earlier in the week, State Chairman L. Judson Morhouse predicted that the people would give Eisenhower a "historic vote of confidence" whethere he or another "progressive Republican" should be the GOP candidate.

Near Billion Air Letters

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Post Office Department said today it is now carrying three-cent letters by air at the rate of nearly a billion a year.

Reporting on the second anniversary of the airlift for surface mail, it said the letters are being delivered by plane "sooner, as much as 48 hours in many instances."

The tests were inaugurated Oct. 6, 1953, on a limited basis between Washington, Chicago and New York city. They have since been expanded to link up 200 cities in 33 states. The surface first class mail is handled, on a space-available basis, by 24 major and feeder airlines.

The legality of the operation is currently being challenged in the courts by a group of railroads.

Nixon Camp Irked About Knight Stand

Los Angeles, Oct. 6 (AP)—Friends of Vice President Nixon are at his side today with sharp retorts to Gov. Goodwin J. Knight for bringing a California Republican Party feud; smoldering for more than a year, into the open.

The governor touched off intraparty fireworks yesterday by stating that, if President Eisenhower doesn't run next year, he intends to head the state's delegation to the GOP national convention even if it means an open fight with Nixon.

IN WASHINGTON, Nixon himself declined comment, but his camp retaliated swiftly with statements by Rep. Carl Hinshaw, chairman of the state's House GOP members, and V. John Krehbiel, Los Angeles county Republican chairman.

Both criticized the governor for making his remarks in a Sacramento interview while President Eisenhower is ill.

Rep. Hinshaw accused Knight of "fantastic pretensions as a bona fide contender for the office of President."

Control of the delegation is considered vital to any Californian with presidential aspirations. It will be second in number of nominating votes only to New York. Traditionally in California, the governor heads the delegation.

HINSHAW SAID bluntly:

"In full recognition of the fact that controversy among California Republicans at this time is most undesirable, I nevertheless feel strongly that the amazing antics of our Gov. Goodwin J. Knight in connection with his fantastic pretensions as a bona fide contender for the office of President of the United States should not go unrebuked.

"Except in the ambitious dreams of Mr. Knight he is something of a political joke in national politics and it will prove most unfortunate for the Republican party in California and in the nation if his unseemly and almost indecent haste to exploit the unfortunate illness of President Eisenhower should result in creating a false impression of his real standing."

GOV. KNIGHT, in his interview, had reiterated that his first choice as a GOP nominee

Economist Warns on Inflation

Advises Nation Watch All Signs

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the President's Council of economic advisers, said today that despite many elements of strength in the current economic situation, the country must be alert for inflationary signs and act to combat them.

Burns told of many "favorable" factors in the nation's prosperity, but added in a speech prepared for the New York State Chamber of Commerce:

"We must recognize, however, that in an economy like ours, poised on a high plateau, neither the threat of inflation nor of recession can ever be very far distant.

"WE LIVE in a world in which the sources of economic change, both domestic and foreign, are many. When both our political parties joined in the Congress to pass by an overwhelming majority the Employment Act of 1946, we in effect resolved as a people to travel henceforth the narrow road that separates the swamps of recession, on the one side, from the cliffs of inflation on the other.

"If we are to stay firmly on this narrow road. the federal government must pursue monetary, fiscal, and housekeeping

Dog Rabid That Bit Gaede Boy

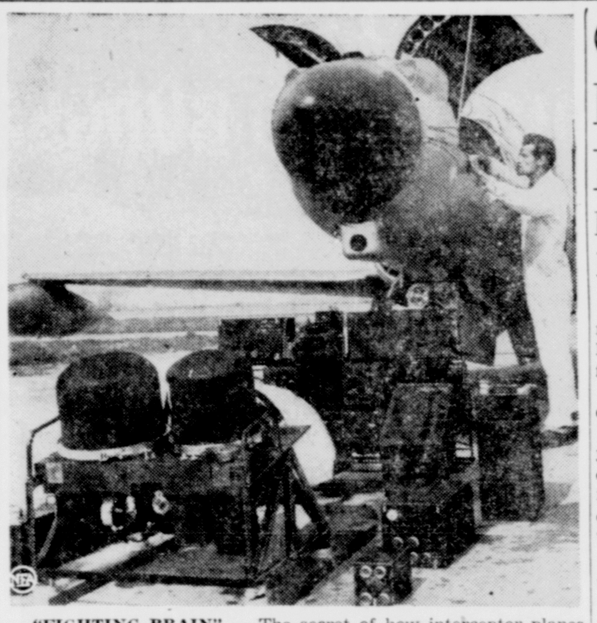

An examination of the head of the dog which bit Chester Gaede, 7 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Gaede of Bearsville Tuesday, has disclosed that the animal was definitely suffering from rabies.

A REPORT was received Wednesday from Albany by the Ulster County Health Department and immediate steps were taken by the health department to trace the activities of the stray dog prior to its appearance in the Bearsville area where it is believed several dogs may have been bitten as well as a tame fawn.

Young Gade was treated at the Kingston Hospital and will continue to receive treatment to prevent development of the disease. Early discovery of the wound inflicted by the rabid dog assures immunization from the bite.

THE DOG, wearing a 1949 license tag, first appeared in the Bearsville area from the direction of Woodstock. Described as a beagle hound, the dog fought with and bit several dogs in the neighborhood before being shot by Robert M. Holsapple who turned the dog over to health authorities for submission of the head to Albany for a check.

Dr. Hargrave, commissioner of health, reported today that the examination at Albany had definietly established the stray animal was suffering from rabies and a check was now being made to ascertain how many animals may have come in the path of the rabid animal and been bitten.

How the accident happened was not immediately disclosed. According to a message to his office here from Mrs. Loughran, she has suffered a laceration of the leg which required stitches and at the time of the report Attorney Loughran was still in shock.

The accident happened about 3 p. m. and Mr. and Mrs. Loughran were riding alone en route home. It was stated their son and daughter in New York had been notified of the accident and had gone to Paterson.

4 Gaullists Are Fired, Premier Not Quitting

Paris, Oct. 6 (AP)—Angered by their outspoken opposition to his North African policy, French Premier Edgar Faure fired four followers of Gen. Charles de Gaulle from his cabinet today.

A fifth minister from the Gaullist Social Republican party, Public Works Minister Edward Corniglion-Molinier, remained in the cabinet. Gen. Pierre Koenig, the Defense Minister, led the dissidents Faure kicked out.

FAURE ASKED for and obtained the four resignations at a long session in his office prior to a cabinet meeting.

The premier's friends said he would now defy the Gaullists by going before the National Assembly and demanding a vote on the policies of his government as a whole — not just on North Africa.

Gaston Palewski, special minister; Raymond Triboulet, minister for veterans affairs, and Maurice Bayrou, secretary of state in the Ministry for Overseas Territories, resigned along with Koenig.

Faure announced his intention to stay on as head of the government after a cabinet meeting with President Rene Coty in the Elysee Palace, France's White House.

THE PREMIER appointed Gen. Pierre Billotte, a former Gaullist now a member of the Republican Action Group (ARS) to succeed Koenig as defense minister. The other dismissed cabinet members were not immediately replaced.

He also announced after the brief session with the President that debate on North African policy would begin tonight.

It is expected that the debate will go on nonstop until Faure either wants a vote of confidence or is thrown out.

HIS CHANCES OF surviving as head of the government appear relatively thin since the withdrawal of the Gaullist votes from his marginal support in the Assembly would leave him without a majority.

The premier is under fire from both those who believe he has compromised too much with Arab Nationalists and those who feel he has not moved rapidly enough to obtain a solution to the continued terrorism and guerrilla warfare.

Social Republican leaders last night called for replacement of Faure's cabinet by a "National Union Government," although such a government elsewhere means all parties, in France it means all except the Communists."

ON LEARNING of the Gaullists' criticism, Faure called the four ministers to his office this morning and bluntly told them to get out.

Corniglion-Molinier, however, apparently was not asked to go, and accompanied Faure to the later cabinet meeting.

The Gaullist defection appeared to threaten Faure's ma-

Sept. Building Hits 4 Billion

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Outlays on new construction during September hit an all-time monthly high and pushed construction activity during the third quarter of this year to a new peak.

Reporting this today, the Departments of Commerce and Labor said new construction spending reached four billion dollars in September, just above the previous record set in August.

That brought the total for the third quarter of the year to $11,900,000,000—9 per cent higher than outlays in July, August and September of 1954, the previous high.

During the first nine months of this year, the two-agency report said, total construction outlays rose to $31,059,000,000. This was 12 per cent higher than in the first nine months of last year.

Four Injured In 3 Rural Accidents

Three one-car accidents in Ulster county within the past 24 hours resulted in the hospitalization of one person and minor injuries to three others, according to reports of Kingston and Highland State Police.

Robert Chapman, 22, of Poughkeepsie, was admitted to Vassar Brothers Hospital, Poughkeepsie, early today suffering fractures of the upper and lower jaws and lacerations of the face and head, Highland troopers reported.

THEY SAID he was traveling south on Route 9W about a mile north of the Highland traffic circle about 3:30 a. m. when his 1954 sedan crossed the highway and struck two guard rails, skidding back into the middle of the road. Troopers C. E. Whiting and J. Gorman investigated.

Ronald Lewis Williams, 21, of Orlando street, Kingston, escaped with minor injuries about 8:30 p. m. yesterday when his 1952 convertible, traveling north on the old King's Highway, Mt. Marion, left the highway on a sweeping right curve and hit a concrete culvert owned by George Adams of Mt. Marion.

MR. WILLIAMS was thrown to the highway, the car continuing diagonally to the other side, striking the corner of the Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Hall, bouncing off and rolling for another 40 feet before it came to rest partly over an embankment, Trooper William Shurter reported.

Mr. Williams was revived by two unidentified passersby and taken to Kingston Hospital where he was treated for abrasions of the back, elbow and knees and released.

Mr. Williams was arrested by Trooper Shurter charged with driving at a dangerous speed. He will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers for hearing at a later date.

Joseph Marinaccio, 23, of Rt. 52, Genhom, sustained a laceration of the right cheek and Thomas Marston, 22, of Beacon,

Farm Aid Reports Are Out

'Fact Sheet' Promises Administration Plans to Do Everything Fair to Improve Agricultural Situation

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Agricultural Department today issued and distributed nearly 3,000 copies of a "fact sheet" on the farm situation and on the aid it said the administration has rendered farmers since it took office in 1953.

Heading the list of 39 "facts important to farmers" was the statement: "There is peace."

The fact sheet, which was credited to Undersectary True D. Morse, was sent to department officials here and in the field, to farm magazine editors, radio farm directors, members of Agricultural Department Advisory Committees, women's page editors, real estate, transportation and fertilizer publications, and to a list of private individuals and organizations which have asked to be put on the mailing list for department material.

Included in the request group were the Republican and Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Morse said the sheet was issued as a "resume" to meet demands of those who ask questions about the farm situation and who seek material for speeches.

"Fact No. 2" stated "there is record high business activity and income," while "Fact No. 3" said "farmers have not shared fully in the great prosperity of the nation."

But the next fact quoted a recent statement of Secretary Benson promising that the administration "will seek earnestly, energetically and constantly to do everything that is fair, right and economically sound to improve this situation."

The sheet went on to say, however, that farm prices had fallen 19 percentage points from the 1951 peak to January, 1953, when the present administration took over, and had fallen nine points since then.

It said income per farmer

Esopus Approves $495,000 Bond For School, Site

A total bond issue of $495,000 covering a new school building and site was overwhelmingly approved during a meeting of Common Consolidated School District No. 1, Town of Esopus Wednesday night.

A vote of 230 to 6 approved the $481,000 bond issue for the construction of the new school building and a vote of 227 to 6, with three ballots void, favored the purchase of the Henry Van Aken site on the Clay road for the new school building.

Specifications and final plans are now being drawn up, according to a school spokesman. Rolfe Dreyer of Poughkeepsie is the architect.

School officials are hopeful that the new construction will be open to students by September of 1956.

Sees President Favoring Some Tax Relief for '56

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Treasury has said once again it is too early to tell whether income or other taxes should be cut next year.

But. Rep. Forand (D-R.I.) says he now believes more strongly than ever that President Eisenhower early in 1956 will recommend "some lowering of taxes."

Forand and Dan T. Smith, special assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, engaged in verbal fencing over the politically-hot tax cut issue yesterday at a hearing of Forand's House Ways and Means subcommittee. The subcommittee is avowedly studying administrative and technical revisions in the excise, or sales tax, laws—not changes in rates.

Forand criticized the Treasury's refusal to submit definite recommendations to the House group and said that strengthened his belief the administration may come up with tax cut proposals in 1956, a general election year.

To that Smith replied, in line

PULL UP THE SIEGE GUNS

Many years before he became president, the late Franklin D. Roosevelt was stricken and became the nation's most famous polio victim.

Its crippling effects plagued him the rest of his life, most cruelly in his final, failing months. But because the spotlight shone so brightly on him as a national figure, thousands of other polio victims benefited.

He dramatized the ailment. With the organization of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the Warm Springs Foundation. Americans found outlets through which they could express their concern. Well-publicized fund drives, focused on Mr. Roosevelt's birthday, fattened the coffers for antipolio reasearch.

The painstaking effort that went into development and preparaton of the celebrated Salk vaccine, with its promise of protection for millions, is a direct outgrowth of the interest thus generated.

Conceivably, the same sort of thing might happen in the field of heart disease, now that Americans have seen their tremendously popular President, Dwight Eisenhower, laid low by this all too common affliction.

Polio is an occasional killer, oftentimes a crippler, but altogether nothing like the menace of heart disease. In 1954 more than half of all the deaths in America were caused by heart and circulatory ailments.

As the President's case seems to suggest, present knowledge and wise care are sufficient today to offer the hope of full or nearly full recovery to countless of the afflicted. But the death toll nevertheless goes on, and much vital work needs to be done.

Oddly, this No. 1 killer is not being combatted with the volume of funds available to the polio researchers. Hopeful lines of inquiry are being cast out, but unless more money comes in they cannot be pursued with full vigor.

No one can say with any certainty that men of imagination and organizing talent will now appear to dramatize the President's illness for the benefit of millions of heart sufferers. It could happen.

But whether or not it does, the average American who is deeply moved by Mr. Eisenhower's misfortune need not wait for the "March of Quarters," or whatever some enterprising men might decide to call a great push for heart research.

The ball has already been started rolling by a number of newspapers over the country. They've called for an outpouring of generosity on the President's birthday, October 14. They suggest that "get well" cards be sent to Denver with donations to the fund of the American Heart Association enclosed.

SAFETY TURNING POINT

After years of virtual silence on the subject, auto makers are beginning to talk out loud about the safety they are building into their product. Various devices intended to prevent injuries and save lives are available in some new cars, and manufacturers are making much of this in their advertisements. For this they are to be commended, though they have been rather slow about jumping on the safety bandwagon.

It is not that the auto people have been indifferent to safety. Far from it. They have consistently improved car bodies, brakes, tires, steering mechanisms with safety in mind. But they have generally hesitated to talk too much about how safe an automobile is lest the public begin to be over-concerned about the hazards of driving.

Various things are being done to make a crashing car less of a death trap. There are safety belts to keep occupants from smashing against steering wheel or dashboard, extra-strong latches to keep doors from springing open, crash padding to absorb shock. Auto makers intend to keep on testing with the idea of installing more safety devices as they become available.

The public will benefit though no belt nor latch can be proof against reckless, incompetent driving. We may be on the verge of that happy time when the traffic toll, instead of rising, will begin a definite trend downward.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THEY'RE AT IT AGAIN

The two-party system, prevalent in this country, makes it possible for each party to present a person for political office. Those who register in the party as provided by law are the only ones who have any choice in the matter. Those who do not so register have nothing to say about it.

It has become customary for New Dealers and other opponents of the Republican Party to interfere in its affairs by conducting pre-primary and pre-convention campaigns against certain Republicans. New Deal columnists, who have never supported a Republican candidate for the Presidency, have had a way of announcing that certain Republicans whom they oppose cannot be elected. By this method, they helped to kill off Robert A. Taft who was in 1948 and in 1952 the favored candidate among Republican Party workers. These enemies of the Republican Party create an atmosphere unfavorable to the person most hated by the radical Americans for Democratic Action (A.D.A.) who are not Republicans at all.

They are doing this at the present moment to Vice President Richard Nixon. Among Republicans there are differences of opinion as to who ought to be the Republican candidate for President should it not be President Eisenhower. These differences of view narrow the contest at this moment to two principal possibilities, Richard Nixon and William Knowland. Both come from California. Should President Eisenhower die or be disabled or resign, Nixon will ipso facto become the Republican candidate.

Should, however, the President finish out his term, either Nixon or Knowland will have to have the California delegation at the Republican Convention next August. That will not be an easy task as the Governor of the State will control that delegation and he will throw his weight whither he pleases, perhaps even to himself. Should a deadlock tie the convention, some other person may be chosen.

But to say now that this man or that man cannot be elected in November 1956 is utter nonsense. Who can possibly know now what political circumstances may affect public opinion in November 1956? The Eisenhower slogan of "Peace and Prosperity" may or may not be a correct one at that time or we may be in a turmoil of relations with Soviet Russia or Red China a year from now or during the intervening 13 months and we may have good times or bad. No poll, taken now, can surely mean anything then. A man who may be popular today may be politically bankrupt then. New names will emerge and numerous deals will be made.

One thing may be estimated as a possibility in both parties: the country is likely to react to the President's illness by rejecting a candidate who is over 60. This can affect both parties seriously. Should Eisenhower have to leave the Presidency before his term is over, age may be a serious factor in public opinion. This could, during the next year, require a revision of ideas concerning all the candidates.

While wisdom comes late in life, the Presidency requires a man of sufficient health to last through a term of office and one who can run for a second term. Too many of our Presidents either die in office or crack up immediately on leaving it, giving occasion to the suspicion that he was really ill as President. The people will think about that in 1956. And that may be tough on several aspirants who now are very sure of themselves.

But to say today that any man cannot be elected is to say more than anyone can know to be true. It is propaganda, not fact. It should be rejected by anyone who wishes to continue the two-party system and have a fair election.

This column is not at this time for any candidate in either party. In the present confusion, only professional politicians have an interest in specifying a choice. But to suggest that should Richard Nixon be nominated, he could not be elected, would be too false to be considered. If the people want the Eisenhower Administration continued, they will elect whomever the Republican Convention nominates and on that my guess would be that that convention will nominate a Republican—that is, one who stood by the party and had a career in it during the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

A LOW SODIUM MEAL PATTERN

Yesterday we were talking about sodium or salt restricted diets which are sometimes prescribed in certain heart, kidney and other conditions. Today we will look at a sample meal pattern used in such diets. The calorie level of this basic list of foods may be increased or decreased by using more or less of the low-sodium cereals and breads, fats, fruits, sugars and jellies.

Breakfast—1 serving citrus fruit; one serving whole-grain or enriched cereal; milk for cereal and drink—8 ounces; one soft-cooked egg; one slice unsalted bread; 2 teaspoons unsalted butter; tea or coffee.

Luncheon or Supper—2 ounces lean meat, poultry or fish; potato or substitute such as rice; green or yellow vegetable raw or cooked without salt. One slice unsalted bread and two teaspoons sweet butter; one serving fruit, one cup of milk.

Dinner—Lean meat, fish or poultry such as a small serving of turkey; potato or substitute; one serving vegetable; one slice unsalted bread and butter; fruit or dessert; tea or coffee.

The foods to avoid, in general, are: Commercial bread, biscuit, pancake or waffle mixes; salted breads, pretzels, white and graham crackers. All dry cereals except cooked unsalted farina, rolled oats, rolled wheat, puffed rice, puffed wheat, muffets, shredded wheat, macaroni, rice, spaghetti. All cheeses except washed cottage and sodium-deficient cheddar (dietetic). Cakes and cookies with regular baking powder or baking soda; commercial cake, cookie, sweetened gelatin, ice cream and pudding mixes and commercial ice cream. Bacon fat. commercial salad dressings, salted butter or margarine. Brains or kidneys; canned salted or smoked meats or fish, bacon, ham, herring, luncheon meats, sausages. Shellfish; frozen fillets or steaks of fish. Salted nuts and peanut butter. All canned soups. Flavorings such as meat sauces, soy sauce, tabasco sauce; prepared mustard and horseradish; vegetable salts such as celery, onion, etc., gravy, catsup, chili sauce, olives, pickles, relishes.

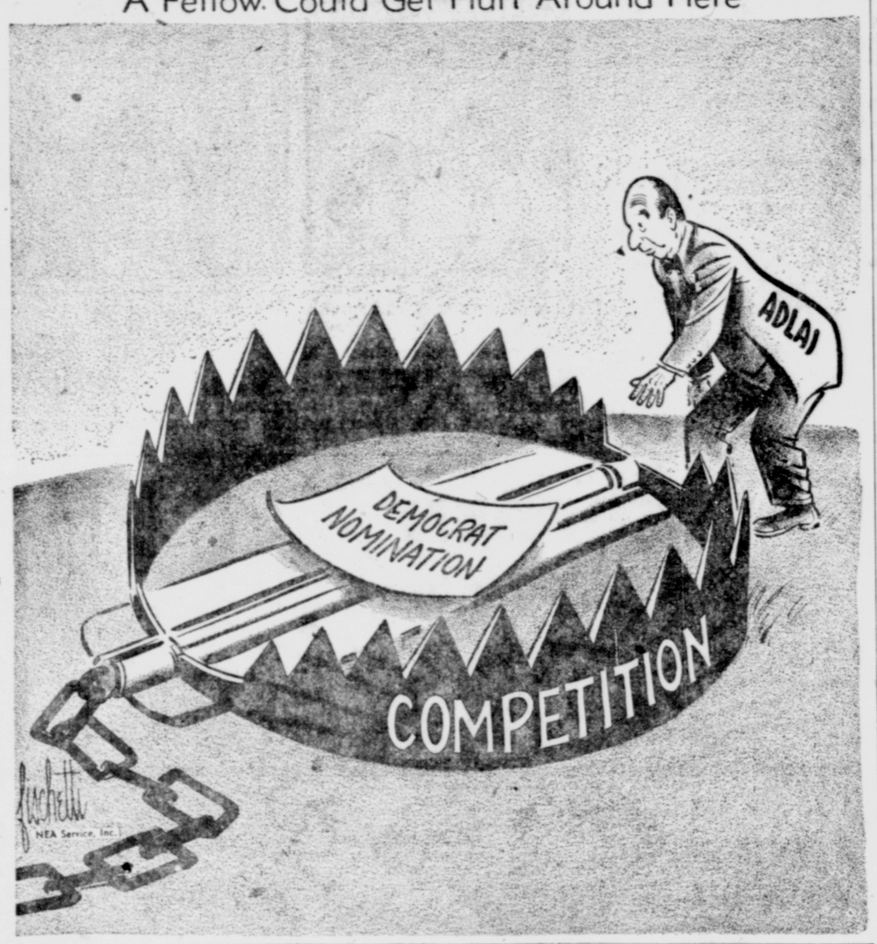

The success of the sodium-restricted diet depends on the patient's willingness to accept the planned meals. Most spices, herbs and other flavorings are low in sodium and may be used to provide variety in flavor. Many recipes can be used when the salt is omitted and when sodium-free leavening agents are used. It is necessary to use 1½ teaspoons of sodium-free baking powder for each teaspoon of regular baking powder specified in a recipe. It is also possible to substitute water for milk in most recipes. Unsalted butter or vegetable fats are used in place of salted fats. Raw fruits and vegetables should be given a prominent place in the diet since they give so much in flavor without the necessity of salt.

A Fellow Could Get Hurt Around Here

Larsen's Washington News Notebook

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — It's strange—and a little unnerving to U. S. security officials—to see the members of the Russian embassy moving around town as freely and eagerly as they have during the past months.

Since the new, all-smiles policy was handed down from Moscow practically every reception, cocktail party and dinner you attend these days is dotted with the colorful Russian military uniforms.

And you invariably spot the various civilian Soviet officials, accompanied by their plump, grinning wives, obviously relishing their new social emancipation.

Maybe it's the novelty of their getting around and being available for general conversation for the first time, but these Russians seem to be awfully popular. They're always surrounded by large groups of interested persons.

Most of the Russians speak pretty good English. That's one of the requirements for assignment to Washington.

THERE MAY BE something diabolical behind the new Soviet gestures of friendship. But the first result of it at the social level here is an exchange of an awful lot of small talk.

For instance, it is now well known that most of the wives of the embassy officials do their food shopping at the town's Kosher delicatessens. They get foods there which most closely resemble what they can buy back home.

The Soviet gals love Washington for the other shopping. Like just about every other housewife in the area they save up their rubles and go to Garfinkles, the fancy department store, when they want to buy an especially slick dress to wear to a party, or to take back home.

That may be kind of captialistic but it proves that the Communists haven't yet found a way to brainwash that kind of femininity out of the female.

The embassy maintains its own school for children of the staff. But the families live all over town. The Russian kids play with the neighborhood kids. And they come up with the same ratio of broken windows, bruised knees and black eyes as can be found in any U. S. family.

JUST ABOUT EVERY SOVIET embassy family has a TV set at home and it causes the same set of problems. The kids want to watch the western. The old man wants to watch football and the fights. And the wife likes the dramatic shows.

Nobody, of course, likes the commercials very much.

The other day someone called the Russian embassy, got one of the secretaries on the telephone, and demanded, "Can you name me the home-run king of baseball?"

"Willie Mays if you're talking about active players and Babe Ruth if you are talking about the all-time record," the embassy man shot back.

"Just checking," the voice said, and there was a click.

That's an example of what the radio and TV has done for the Russians here.

Actually the embassy male staff engages in a rather ambitious sports program. The men have soccer and volleyball games each weekend on a big public playground out on 16th street.

In spite of the general impression that Russians are now being allowed to roam all over the United States at will, and vice versa for Americans in Russia, the strict travel ban which was slapped on them last winter is still rigidly enforced.

MEMBERS OF THE EMBASSY may not travel more than 25 miles from the center of Washington without special permission from the State Department. They can't travel at all through many restricted places around the country.

It's obvious that with the Russians circulating more and more in town that the job of keeping any eye on them is made tougher.

In fact, the wonder is that the Russians here went into their shell for as long as they did. If they wanted to spy or pick up interesting info they certainly could have done it better by getting around a lot.

In any event, officials charged with the country's security aren't likely to be caught flat-footed if this whole thing is a ruse.

So They Say..

Barring of Informants Could Mean Peril to Jury System

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 6—A drive to break down the use of confidential informants in detecting and prosecuting criminals has been begun in America under the guise of protecting "constitutional rights." It could lead to the breakdown of the entire grand jury system, too. When the Assistant Attorney General in charge of enforcing the laws against subversives and the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation feel it necessary to make public speeches calling attention to the crusade faced by the government in protecting the people's interests against Communist infiltration, it is significant. It means that officials here think the drive to bar confidential informants is making headway due to distortion and lack of knowledge by the American people as to the nature and objectives of the attack.

Assistant Attorney General William F. Tompkins and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover spoke before the International Association of Chiefs of Police, and both frankly declared themselves on the subject of the Communist conspiracy.

NEITHER ONE mentioned the grand jury system, but it is obvious that if confidential informants are to be barred, then the process of indictment by grand juries falls to the ground, too. At present counsel for a defendant indicted for a crime cannot obtain the transcript of the grand jury proceedings nor the names of the witnesses. Likewise, when an indictment is filed and subsequently there is an acquittal, the individual who is accused does carry the stigma of having been indicted. Today those who want security boards inside the executive branch of the government not to accuse any one unless guilt is known in advance, because a stigma might remain, are really arguing that those who have been acquitted after court trials should not have been tried at all. This is a novel concept of American law and traditional jurisprudence.

"As an institution," said FBI Director Hoover, "the confidential informant is used not only by law enforcement but in practically every walk of life, particularly by the press and our financial institutions. In recent years, there has been a determined campaign designed to deprive law enforcement of the use of the time-tested and valued confidential informants. This campaign of vituperation is part and parcel of Communist strategy to convert the courtroom into a forum to discredit the judicial processes. For the most part, the technique of the smear has been devised by Communist lawyers, skilled in concealing foul and despicable acts behind the Fifth Amendment. They employ tactics which even the most unscrupulous underworld 'mouthpiece' would frown upon as improper.

"THE COMMUNIST owes no allegiance to God, to his family or to his country. He owes it only to the party and will do anything the party commands him to do. He will lie, cheat, steal or do anything for the Communist cause.

"The inroads that Communist propaganda has made in influencing law-abiding Americans, who fail to realize that criminal conspiracies are conceived behind closed doors under the cover of darkness, are disheartening. It is through the efforts of confidential informants that we have been able to expose the Communist conspiracy in the past and through them we must stake much of the future security of the United States. That is why such a vicious and sustained attack has been made against former Communists who have first-hand knowledge of the secret, diabolical purposes of the Communist party.

"THOSE NOW furthering the campaign of vituperation against witnesses say that the Communist menace is a myth created by those who testified against it. Therefore, to destroy the myth, they feel it is necessary to destroy the witnesses. They refuse to recognize the Communist enslavement of one third of the world's people and one fourth of the world's surface. These witnesses have been cross-examined in our courts, observed by judges and juries and they have been brought under the penetrating eye of the American press.

"The Communists, bent on weakening our American way of life, have now turned to enlist other individuals and groups to convey propaganda designed to discredit truth.

"It is through the 'pseudo liberals' that the Communists do some of their most destructive work. These fictitious liberals are the individuals who through insidiously slanted and sly propagandistic writings and reports oppose urgently needed internal security measures; conduct a one-sided campaign to discredit government witnesses; present the menace of Communism as a myth of hysteria; urge that we tolerate the subversive acts of Communists because Communists are only 'nonconformists'; contend that the Communist party is a 'political' movement and that it is improper to consider it a criminal conspiracy linked to a world conspiracy to overthrow our government by force and violence.

"CONSTRUCTIVE criticism and constant evaluation of methods, procedures and accomplishments in an objective manner is the way to progress. But, everyone and everything related the eagerness of some to attack to the exposure of the Communist conspiracy in this country is hardly the mark of a true liberal. Indeed, the true liberal is opposed to everything communism represents, for the very nature of communism is the antithesis of liberalism."

After declaring that the use of the confidential informant isn't new or unusual in criminal law enforcement, Mr. Tompkins in his address said:

"And I dare venture to state that it is because of their very effectiveness as witnesses that they have become a target of abuse by the Communist party and certain of its apologists."

It begins to look as if a determined effort will have to be made to counteract the concerted attempt that has developed throughout America to weaken law enforcement measures which, if adopted, would frustrate the means of detecting criminals.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Rome—Three young women here, the Fontana sisters, Micol, Giovanna and Zoe, have achieved an amazing success not only in the creation and manufacture of luxurious dresses but in whacking the knuckles of the French monopoly which had become very smug, not to say supercilious, toward the sucker parvenu Americans. How it ever came that an almost mythical male named Christian Dior, doing business in Paris, could "decree" that American women of fashion, indeed, almost all American women, should go flat-chested again, I have not bothered to inquire. The pursuit of the truth to the press-agent's door, probably in New York, would not pay off on the investment of time and effort.

At any rate, this Dior subtly but suddenly became a power in the women's garment industry, an important vein of our domestic American commerce which thrusts those new things into shop windows across the country. There have been contenders in the Parisian center of fashion for this magic publicity of Dior's and the profits therefrom. But I am given to understand by my authority on such matters that Dior is now the dictator, as you might say, of the Parisian phase of this grim, yet frivolous, business.

The sisters Fontana, of Rome, are not princesses, nor countesses nor even aristocrats. They are working girls, needle-women from Parma, who hit Rome in 1939 and started a small shop, doing much of their own sewing, which they had learned from their mother. It is said that the women of their family had been doing this sort of thing for 200 years, but you believe that on your own responsibility. It may be true, but I am cautious and I do not even know that there were commercial designers and dress-makers to the restricted supply of quality folks that long ago.

Micol, is the one who runs the front end of the shop on the Via Liguria and also, apparently, puts in longs days buying, bossing and draping, festooning and crimping stuff on the chassis' of patient patrons, mostly from overseas. She quit school at 14 to sew and buck the world, and her personal experience has included the death of a daughter who would be about 16 now. She is taking the show on the road again, for the second time, exhibiting the Roman Fontana line in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago and, finally, starting in November, in Las Vegas. There she is booked into Belden Kattelman's Rancho Vegas, where Joe E. Lewis earns X-thousands a week making people laugh and loses, on the average, that much or more at the crap table.

Miss Micol on the contrary, will come away with as much as she collects because, not meaning to rap the principal commerce of Las Vegas, she earned her money the hard way, and thinks gambling is for fools. She is gay and, like most Romans, has a strong strain of owl blood which keeps them up until all hours.

The Fontana girls really got going in 1944 when the war was lost for Italy and, to get to the evidence in this case, they now have a startling roster of carriage trade. There was a note in the local home-town paper a few days ago about the arrival of Tommy Manville's sister, Lorraine Manville Baxter. She held still for the fitting of 30 numbers for all four seasons and I have inside information that this is a terrible ordeal, especially in the hot weather which prevailed then. Ava Gardner trades at this, let us say, studio and Linda Christian, Elizbeth Taylor, Margaret Truman and a couple of peasant Nutmeg ranchers from Connecticut, Clare Booth Luce and Mrs. John Lodge, the wife of the ex-governor who landed on his feet in the Madrid embassy. The Fontana girls have had two queens and numerous princesses in their fitting-rooms.

The store is a sort of double-parlor on the third floor of a house which seems to be an old dwelling, reached by a form-fitting elevator, an architectural marvel found in many Roman buildings. Elevators were not invented when these houses were put together so genius has contrived to use narrow stairwells for elevator shafts. This car will hold three, but they have to be skinny. There is no sign outside and the entrance to Fontanas' is by way of a little alley with a little foliage. The only identification is a penciled but faded "Fontana" on a panel about one-inch high by six inches long, on a pillar where the little alley begins.

I would not undertake to say that Rome has taken the play away from Paris in this occult business of gratifying the vanity of women with money, but the battle certainly has been joined and these working girls, the Fontana sisters, have been leaders on the Roman side. Some of the Parisians grew so nasty that they drove some American women out of town determining never to spend another dollar for anything there again. They were reveling at the fabulous South American trade which now has abated and the American victims of a plainly intentional rudeness will need heavy woo to bring them back.

I shouldn't mess with the subject, but I offer the rash judgment that whereas a Roman costume adorns the woman, the Parisian numbers always seem to dominate her and reduce her to the status of a clothes-horse. When babes are rising forty, as most of the few who can pay such prices are, they want to share the billing and the approval with their apparel. There are no such freaks in Roman style as the so-called A-line and Z-line, and no individual is presuming to decree that next season women must wear bustles or suffer slings and arrows of scorn.

This is a simple success story composed of simple ingredients. The Fontana girls have 110 employes but only five sewing machines which they sometimes run themselves. They made a superior mouse-trap and the world has beaten a path right by Paris and up a little alley to lay fortunes on a small desk in a converted apartment.

Hospital Aid Hearing

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—A public hearing on plans for granting federal hospital aid to the state during the next year will be held here on Tuesday (1 p. m.) by the State Hospital Survey and Planning Commission. No applications of individual sponsors will be heard, the commission said in an announcement yesterday. MODERN VERSION — Carlo Collodi's wooden puppet, "Pinocchio," is being refashioned in bronze by sculptor Emilio Greco, shown in Rome finishing the chalk model. The modernistic statue shows the puppet looking up at the Blue-Haired Fairy, his protector in the story known by children of many countries. A heron, topping the work, symbolizes Pinocchio's change into a real boy. Funds for the statue, which will stand in the Gardens of Collodi in the author's home town of Pescia, Italy, were donated by children from all over the world.

Fireman Fatally Hurt in Crash

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—The driver of a panel truck, involved in an accident with a fire engine which cost the life of a young fireman, died today from injuries suffered in the collision.

Fireman George Zapf, 29, suffered fatal injuries yesterday when the fire truck collided with a commercial vehicle driven by Roilan F. Acosta, 27, of (976 Fox St.) the Bronx.

The accident occurred at West End Ave., and 75th St., Manhattan. The crash caused the fire engine to carom into two parked cars and smash into an apartment house.

Zapf, who died of a skull fracture, had been riding on the engine only to issue summonses to motorists who fail to yield the right-of-way to fire apparatus. Zapf resided in (78-39 90th Ave.) Woodhaven, Queens.

At the time of the crash, Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr., said Acosta failed to give the fire engine the right of way.

Acosta, who also suffered a skull fracture, remained unconscious at a hospital until his death.

Four other firemen were injured in the mishap.

Kefauver Says World Needs Eisenhower

Hong Kong, Oct. 6 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) arrived from Singapore today on a world tour and refused to say whether he will seek the presidential nomination next year.

"I refuse to discuss domestic politics," he added with a smile.

He said he hoped for the early recovery of President Eisenhower because "he is greatly needed by the world today."

The senator said his recent tour of the Soviet Union impressed him that the Russians are making great headway in industry, "but the peoples' standard of living is still poor."

From the central control panel here, the programs will be routed by various channels to the countries which are to receive them.

Grand Union Co. Cooking School

For many years a cook book has been second to the Bible on non-fiction best seller lists. That's how important cookery is to our people and that's how important Grand Union Stores believes it is to bring a series of cooking schools to the homemakers of Kingston.

Starting next Monday and continuing through Friday, this friendly market will hold cooking schools in the Municipal Auditouim, from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. on Wednesday.

Georgia Richards, internationally-known foods and cookery expert, will be in charge. Every session will be different but the entire week will be given to new uses of the well-known foods, quick and easy tips resulting in saving of time, energy and money. Housewives may feel free to discuss food problems with this highly-informed home economist.

THESE WILL be no cut- and-dried teaching lessons. Quite the contrary—every minute will be packed with help for the cook, whether she's living alone and liking it, using a little one-burner, or whether she's the mother of a grand big family and has a super-duper range with all gadgets. There'll be fun, too, because Georgia Richards has a guiding phrase "Fun With Food," and you'll find her entertaining you as she goes along, telling you about economical dishes and full-course meals at low cost.

As if all this weren't enough, there'll be prizes. Yes—15 bags of groceries every day, plus the foods cooked on the platform. On Friday there'll be a grand prize—a very grand prize—a Frigidaire electric range given in cooperation with Joseph Scholar & Son. So—Grand Union lives up to its reputation. Always in there pitching to bring the newest and the best at low cost to homemakers in this area. And—don't forget—this time it's for free—a first-rate cooking school.

See Teetor Out

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP) — Lothair Teetor, who became assistant secretary of commerce two years ago tomorrow, reportedly is on his way out of the Eisenhower administration. Teetor, the target of at least two CIO attacks, formerly was chairman of the board of the Perfect Circle Corp. That company's New Castle, Ind., foundry was the scene yesterday of a strike riot in which eight persons were wounded. Teetor resigned as board chairman to take the Commerce Department post Oct. 7, 1953, and said last month he had exercised no voice in the company's management since that time.

Senator Is Named Supreme Court Justice

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Gov. Harriman has appointd Sen. Louis L. Friedman, assistant Democratic minority leader, as a justice of State Supreme Court.

Friedman, of Brooklyn, was named yesterday for a term in the Second Judicial District expiring Dec. 31, 1956. He succeeds the late Justice Charles N. Cohen in the $30,000-a-year post.

The governor was expected to call a special election coincident with the general election Nov. 8 to fill the vacancy in the 12th Senate District in Brooklyn.

It was understood that the Kings County Democratic Organization would choose Assemblyman Frank J. Pino to run for Senate seat. That would make necessary a special election to fill a vacancy in the 16th Assembly District, represented by Pino.

Voters in the Second Judicial District, Kings and Richmond counties, will choose a Supreme Court justice in November, 1956, for a 14-year term.

Get a Horse!

Mackinac Island, Mich. (AP)—The horse, still first in transportation style at this historic summer resort, stepped aside briefly for a minor invasion of 1956 model autos. The island's city council permitted one auto manufacturer to bring in six new models to photograph against island scenery.

MAIL OVERSEAS GIFTS EARLY!—The U. S. Post Office has designated the period October 15 to November 15 for mailing Christmas parcels to overseas servicemen and women to insure delivery before Christmas Day. Illustrated above are the more important P.O. regulations for such parcels. In addition, matches and lighter fluid are prohibited in all overseas mail. Coffee, cigarettes and other tobacco products may not be sent to Armed Forces personnel in certain European countries. It is a very good precaution to put INSIDE the package, a slip of paper with names and addresses of sender and serviceman, together with a list of the contents to provide identification in the event the address on the outside becomes defaced or the parcel is broken open. When in doubt, consult your post office.

New U. S. Tires Have Steel Wire

United States Rubber Co. is introducing a new line of passenger car and truck tires, all containing from one to eight miles of flexible, high strength steel wire, James Mack, distributor of Royal Tire Service, 785 Broadway, said today.

Steel wire, Mr. Mack said, make a tire tread rupture-proof, doubles cut resistance and eliminates tread cut growth. It also makes a tire run from 20 to 40 degrees cooler, minimizes the danger of centrifugal force throwing off treads at high speed, improves high speed riding qualities, and contributes to increased tread mileage.

According to Mr. Mack, it marks the first time that a major rubber manufacturer has used wire successfully in a passenger car tire although tire engineers have been experimenting with it for more than 20 years. There are wire truck tires on the market at the present time but they use wire in place of textiles. U. S. Rubber uses wire in addition to textiles.

"THESE TIRES should prove to be the safest that have been made to date," he said. "U. S. Rubber engineers have placed the wire under the tread in such a position as to use its tremendous strength for greater safety and use textiles in the carcass and sidewall where their flexibility is necessary for smooth riding qualities.

"The wire, made of steel as strong as that in bridge cable, is used in filaments which are slightly larger than a human hair. These filaments are twisted into strands and laid in criss-crossed layers which give the effect of a fine mesh steel cloth.

"A hoop of two layers of the wire is embedded in rubber at the base of the tread, forming a shield that protects the carcass and makes a permanent bond between tread and carcass."

Century Memorial

Bement, Ill. (AP) — This town was founded a century ago. Three young men, Joseph Bodman, L. B. Wing and Henry P. Little paid the government $1.25 an acre and donated the land. Bement's first real house was built for Bodman in 1855 and it still stands on its original site. F. E. Bryant, first cousin of poet William Cullen Bryant, moved to Bement in 1856 and became a leading merchant, establishing the first bank and serving two terms in the Illinois General Assembly. It was at his home, now preserved as a memorial by the state, that Lincoln and Douglas met in 1858 to plan their debates. There were many relics for the centennial celebration. Among them was Bodman's bath tub and a chain used by Steve Hawks in switching freight cars with a yoke of oxen a century ago.

Typhoon Kills 327

Saigon, South Viet Nam, Oct. 6 (AP)—At least 327 persons were killed and extensive property damage was suffered when Typhoon Kate struck north Viet Nam, the Hanoi press reported today. Observers here thought it probable the death toll was much higher than what the Communist government in north Viet Name would admit. In a delayed report on the damage, caused by the terrible storm Sept. 26, the newspaper Nhan Dan said most of the victims lived in the maritime zone of Haiphong.

Drop Religion Hearings

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Investigating senators have dropped their disputed plans to conduct public hearings on freedom of religion. Chairman Hennings (D-Mo.) announced his subcommittee on constitutional privileges has decided to dispense with the calling of witnesses He said it will proceed, instead, to the writing of a report based on replies to a widely circulated questionnaire sent out by subcommittee staff aides.

A Small Bigamy?

Houston, Tex. (AP)—A man called the cops and wanted to know why his friend was jailed. The jailor said there was a suspicion the fellow had a wife in Mexico as well as Houston. "Oh," said the caller. "I was afraid it was something serious."

Saugerties Board Of Education Has New Bus Problems

Transportation again became a vital question before the Board of Education of Saugerties Central School at the regular meeting held this week when two committees of parents, one from High Falls road and another from Flatbush presented petitions for added bus routes.

A committee of parents living on the High Falls road northwest of Quarryville came before the board and asked for transportation of their children out to Route 32. The petition was denied.

THE COMMITTEE representing the Flatbush area requested transportation for the children in that area who live more than two miles from the school house. Since the law requires the transportation of elementary pupils who live more than two miles from the school building in a centralized district, a committee was appointed to arrange for the necessary transportation. The committee consists of John Lowther and Mrs. Agnes Schroeder.

On Thursday of this week a committee of the board will go to Syracuse to inspect buildings in preparation for the engaging of an architect. The committee consists of Mr. Lowther, Mrs. Lasher, Mrs. Schroeder and Dr. Grant D. Morse.

Superintendent Morse reported on his attendance at the annual meeting of the Council of School Superintendents at Saranac Inn in September. His report, among other matters, included a quoted statement by Dr. Moore, a member of the Educational Conference Board who stated in part "The standards of education in New York state have declined since 1948-49. There is a shortage of teachers, class size has increased, buildings are increasingly crowded. $100,000,000, he said are needed to eliminate the inflation factor in the equalization formula."

Dr. Morse also reported on the address of the new Commissioner of Education, Dr. James E. Allen Jr. Dr. Allen said that the first function of the State Education Department or of himself as commissioner, is to improve the quality of the teaching that takes place in the classroom.

Dr. Morse reported a visit by Miss Georgianna Marks, an associate in the Bureau of Home Economics Division of the State Education Department, in our local Homemaking Department, which is now headed by Mrs. Catherine Van Etten, assisted by Mrs. June Myer. Miss Marks gave a favorable report on her visit.

The board voted to increase the salary of the collector, John F. Carnright to $1,200. The position originally called for $1,000.

Faces New Theft Charge

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—A missing company president, sought in a $130,000 fund shortage, has been charged with taking $60,000 from another firm of which he was vice president. The absent executive, Robert Morman, also has interests in eight smaller companies and Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said he is wanted for questioning about the issuance of thousands of phony stock certificates. Morman is president and director of the Lawyers Mortgage and Title Co.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

South Keeps Aces at Bay

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

A regional bridge tournament usually attracts players from at least a dozen nearby states, and the tournament that begins today in Chattanooga is no exception to the rule. Experts from all parts of the South will stream in to play for regional championships under the shadow of Lookout Mountain.

A sample of the kind of play to be expected at the tournament is shown in today's hand, played by Mrs. Margaret Wagar of Atlanta. Mrs. Wagar has won more national championships than she can count, and the play of this hand shows why.

West opened the six of hearts, and Mrs. Wagar won with the ten. The Atlanta expert then led a club to dummy's ace in order to return a low diamond from the dummy. East couldn't afford to play the ace of diamonds, for then declarer would have four sure diamond tricks, so East played low and South won with the queen.

It wasn't safe to lead another diamond, since East would take the ace and lead a heart. Hence Mrs. Wagar led a low spade to dummy's queen and returned a spade from dummy towards her own king. If West had taken his ace, South would have been sure of nine tricks; three spades, two hearts, a diamond, and three clubs.

When West refused to take the ace of spades, Mrs. Wagar switched back to diamonds. She had already taken two spades and could now be sure of two diamonds. The two hearts and three clubs were never in doubt, so the contract was absolutely safe.

If South began the play by leading diamonds from her own hand at the second trick, East would capture an honor with his ace of diamonds and return a heart. This would enable West to establish his suit, with the ace of spades as a sure entry, and South would be unable to develop nine tricks without tackling the spades.

Pedestrian Survey

Traverse City, Mich. (AP)—Officials of the new Clinch Park Zoo let visitors' feet do their surveying. Wherever heavy pedestrian traffic left paths between animal exhibits, sidewalks were built. AMERICAN MENU

Apricot Fritters Good With Browned Sausages

GOOD EATING. Try tender little brown and serve sausages with apricot fritters and brown sugar sauce.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Market Editor

Ever eat apricott fritters with those tender little sausages that are precooked and require nothing more than browning? Good eating. We had this dish in Chicago at the home of Marian Loofe, who is as skillful with a skillet as she is always smartly groomed.

Sausage With Apricott Fritters
(Yield: 4 servings)

One package (½ pound) brown-and-serve sausage, ¾ cup cooked dried apricots, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 cup water, ½ cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, separated; fat for frying.

Cut apricots in small pieces. Simmer with sugar and water until they are plump. Cool. Drain apricots, save liquid for sauce. powder and salt. Combine egg yolks and drained apricots. Mix well with the dry ingredients.

Fold in beaten egg whites. Heat fat in a heavy kettle to 360 degrees F. Drop batter by teaspoonful into hot fat. Turn to brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Fry sausage in deep fat about 1 minute to brown while fritters are draining. Serve sausage and fritters hot with Fritter Sauce.

Fritter Sauce

Two teaspoon cornstarch, 2 teaspoons brown sugar, ¾ cup apricot liquid.

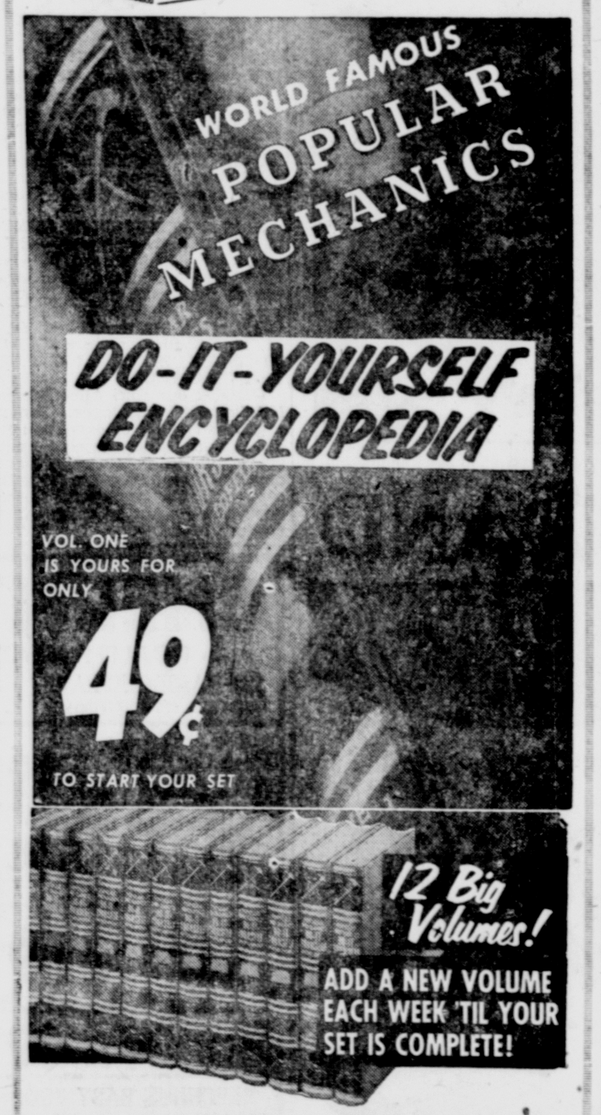

Combine cornstarch and brown sugar in a saucepan. Gradually add all apricot liquid. Cook and stir over low heat until the sauce is clear. The sauce will be thin.

Note: One cup drained, canned apricots cut into small pieces may be substituted for the cooked dried apricots.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Sausages with apricot fritters and apricot sauce, buttered broccoli, heated French rolls, butter or margarine, caramel custard pudding, sugar cookies, coffee, tea milk.

Extends Thanks

October 4, 1955

Editor, The Freeman:

We are taking this opportunity, during National Newspaper Week, to extend to you our thanks for the help you so generously give us the year round to make our program better known to our Kingston and Ulster county residents.

We know if it were not for the press, the Ulster County TB and Health Association could not begin to reach so many of our public.

You have a large share in this educational effort and we appreciate what you, your assistants, reporters and other members do in this important health and welfare program.

Sincerely,
KATHERINE M. MURPHY, R.N.
Executive Secretary

WEEKLY FOOD REVIEW

(By The Associated Press)

Pork is on the bargain counter in the nation's food stores this weekend.

Loins of pork are the particular favorite, with prices down from a week ago nearly everywhere. A lot of emphasis is being put on smoked ham, too—"they're an economical item right now," one meat specialist commented.

RETAILERS STOCKED up on pork because hog quotations are down around the lowest levels in 10 years. What's more, it looks as if prices will drop further because marketings are due to increase in November and December.

If pork doesn't catch your fancy, you'll find a good variety of other meats on the list of specials. Prime ribs of beef will be a feature in many stores, along with steaks of all kinds and chuck roast. Frying chickens will be available in some areas at lower prices. And there will be specials here and there on veal shoulder roast.

There won't be many stores featuring legs of lamb. Prices on this item will be about the same as a week ago.

EGGS WILL BE cheaper in most places, with Grade A whites being trimmed two to four cents a dozen. Butter will hold around week-ago levels.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has come up with a list of the best buys in October, based on plentiful supplies and reasonable prices. On the list are pork, beef, broilers and fryers, canned tuna, cheese and other dairy products, vegetable fats and oils, lard, apples and grapes.

This, incidentally, is National Fish Week. The National Fisheries Institute says it looks for a 15 per cent increase in fish consumption in this country in the next five years, largely because of the growing popularity of easy-to-prepare frozen foods such as fish sticks, fish bites, breaded shrimp, scallops and portion packs.

There's another new entry in the easy-baking field: A pound cake mix is on the market. The housewife simply adds an egg and milk to the mix, beats it and pours it into a disposable baking tin that comes with the package.

IN THE PRODUCE markets, potatoes and onions are described as the outstanding buys in vegetables. Good buys include lettuce, eggplant, peppers of all varieties, sweet potatoes, cabbage, beans, cauliflower, spinach, escarole and endive.

Carrots, pascal celery and cucumbers are listed as moderately-priced.

Produce men agree with the USDA that apples and grapes are good buys. They add that limes are another fine purchase.

California citrus fruits are down a bit in price. Peaches are moderately-priced. There's a wide range of quality in honeydews and cantaloupes.

The Big Window

FROM Pakistan to Peru, the average American home is the symbol of luxurious living. Even such a frivolous U.S. toy as an electric train was the sensation of a foreign trade fair recently. Without the tremendous main bearing of the American press with its reports on what's new and its advertising to show the way to attaining new things, our standard of living would never have attained these heights.

Biggest Source

Richmond, Va. (AP)—The largest source of the income for Virginians is government salaries. The University of Virginia's Bureau of Population and Economic Research says manufacturing comes second. Also, the growing weight of government salaries in the Arlington-Alexandria area, just across the Potomac from Washington, knocked Richmond into second place in per capita income.

Sirens Reduce Speeds

Sandusky, Ohio (AP) — Those screeching sirens heard by resort-bound motorists in this Lake Erie area do not signal the approach of pursuing police cars, but the end result is usually about the same. Sandusky police were faced with the problem of controlling motor vehicles on a private roadway over which they have no jurisdiction. The roadway connects the mainland with Cedar Point, a beach resort on the lake shores. They provided seven groupings of dual spaced tapes and accompanying sirens. Now, when a motorist in a hurry for a swim gets going over 35 miles per hour and passes over a tape, the sirens begin screaming and drivers are reminded to slow down. The system was installed after the death of two children on the road during the early spring and summer.

Mixed Communications

Omaha (AP) — Eric Nyblom found the radio gone from the dashboard of his car. Clipped to the dashboard was a note. It read "Thank you."

Police Brother Act

Trenton, N. J. (AP) — If you exceed the speed limits anywhere between Alantic City and Princeton or on the New Jersey Turpike there is a good chance you'll get a ticket by a state trooper named Miller. There are five Miller Brothers with the state police. The oldest, Joseph A. Miller Jr., joined seven years ago after a hitch in the navy. And as brothers Robert, Leonard, Richard and Gerald completed their military service, they followed in the footsteps of their big brother. But although they're in the same outfit, they have different shifts and rarely get together.

As the German army in Italy retreated northward in August 1944, they blew up all of Florence's bridges except the Ponte Vecchio.

Statuettes Are Recovered, Boys Face New Trouble

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Eight art treasures stolen from the Brooklyn Museum by two mischievous boys have been recovered, police announced Wednesday, but the lads' troubles are far from over.

Three of the valuable items—tiny silver statuettes—were located yesterday and officers found the others yesterday in such places as sewers and incinerators where the boys, having grown panicky, tried to get rid of them.

IN BROOKLYN Children's Court, the youngsters were adjudged juvenile delinquents and ordered sent to the Manhattan Youth House for psychiatric tests and other studies. A further hearing in their case will be held Oct. 27.

Parents of the two pleaded with Children's Judge Louis Lorenze for a chance to take the boys home.

The judge, however, said he could not agree to do so because of the seriousness of their theft. He said the pair were high school boys and old enough to know right from wrong.

IN ADDITION, he said, one of them already is on parole for having fired six rifle shots at a police car with one bullet very nearly striking an officer.

Several of the figures stolen by the youngsters, whose names were not made public, had been loaned to the Brooklyn Museum by the Boston Museum, the Walters Art Gallery of Baltimore and the Seattle Art Gallery.

If you are injured in an accident with a car which is not insured—an automobile liability policy with any of the insurance companies listed below will pay you the bodily injury damages you sustain as a result of the accident up to limits of $10,000-$20,000

All you have to do to receive this money is to prove the amount of your damages – that is, what you have lost through medical expenses, wages, etc. You do not have to prove who was to blame. You receive your payment no matter whose fault it was.

This protection applies to accidents happening in New York and elsewhere in the United States and Canada. It covers members of your family living with you, whether they are riding or walking at the time of the accident. BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

THE FLOWER GIRLS
By CLEMENCE DANE

This is a long, interesting story about the dramatic Floristers-first family of the English theatre.

When the story opens in 1946, the Florister family consists of Sir Julius Florister, eldest son of Job Florister, one time head gardener, who made his fortune in Govent Garden market and built the family mansion upon a street bordering the Garden. Sir Julius is an invalid after a breakdown following his more than 50 years as a great tragedian of the English stage. He lives in state in a theatre-like apartment in the mansion, surrounded by innumerable portraits depicting his glorious past and waited upon by two perfect English servants, Fred Dolphin and his wife, "Beatie", as well as by most of the members of the family. Sir Julius, married and divorced three times and widowed once, has four daughters, Olive, beautiful, seductive, talented actress; Primose (Mrs. Hugh Stamforth); who works in British Broadcasting Station and devotes most of her spare time, after breaking with Hugh, catering to her father's whims; Bell, aircraft stewardess; Carlina, beautiful and stupid dress model, and Julian Duffield, illegitimate son, whom Julius never owned, although all the rest of the family did.

JULIUS' next younger brother, Paxtom, is a talented painter but devotes most of his time and energy to managing the family finances and the family's own theatre—The Flower Theatre—. So well did he manage these affairs that in spite of wartime restrictions, he kept both household and theatre in a state of moderate affluence and was without question the balance wheel of the whole family.

Next are the three "Flower girls"'—Lily, (Mrs. Bernado Parrett), May (Mrs. Rudolph Shutto, later Lady Wellford) and Myrtle. Each a great beauty and accomplished actress. They usually appeared together in plays at the Flower Theatre.

Youngest brother is Ernest. The only one not in the theatre. He married an American, Isobel Picken, in California and there their son, Jacy, was born. Isobel was capricious and possessive, couldn't understand Ernest's diverse interests and left him in South America, taking all of his valuables, including his son.

JACY LOVED his mother but found her hard to live with. For a time, when he was 12 years old, he escaped her demands upon him by obtaining a part in motion pictures. At a Hollywood studio his talent was recognized and he soon became a boy star. He was fortunate in the friendship of the production manager, Darvell, and with the advice of a wise investment counsellor he was able to use his large income so as to give his mother the luxuries she craved. Isobel was a gay little deceiver. At first she let Jacy believe that his father had deserted them. Then she let him believe that he was dead. In fact, after not hearing from him for many years, she believed it too. However when she learned from Uncle Paxton (who by chance found Ernest half starved and penniless in South America) that he was alive and in England, she did not tell Jacy.

So, soon after Isobel was killed in an automobile accident, Jacy went to England to become acquainted with his English relatives. He knew that they lived in Govent Garden and that was about all. However once in the Garden he had no trouble. Everyone there knew the Floristers. He was conducted straight to the family home where he was warmly welcomed by "Uncle Pax," given his father's old attic rooms and invited to stay for as long as he liked.

His very first night in England was packed with excitement. First dinner served by the Dolphins. Then a ballet performance where he was Pax' guest and met several members of his family and got his first glimpse of his glamorous cousin, Olive, who was to have a great influence upon his life. Then a large reception in the ballroom where he met nearly all of the rest of the family. After that, following the usual family custom of staying up until dawn, he took a walk in the moonlight with Doffield, learning more about his amazing family. That was not all. After his return to his attic room, he was visited by Olive for an intimate session lasting into the late morning.

A FEW DAYS later Jacy accompanied Olive into the country for a try-out of her new play. In the darkened theatre, where he was watching a rehearsal, he was joined by Olive with a distinguished gentleman to whom she gave no introduction. Merely left them saying, "You two need no introduction." Believing that this was another cousin, Jacy accepted his invitation to spend the night at his home nearby and only after they entered the house did he learn that this man was his father. The shock was almost too much for him. Re-adjustment was painful for both but ended in real peace and understanding between them.

There were more surprises to come. This English family of Jacy's offered an infinite variety of experiences, all of them tending to make the English tie closer. Interesting to see which experience made the greatest impact. Just seeing London by moonlight was thrilling. The midnight trip to the great floor of the exchange of Lloyds of London with its great bell, which sounds twice for an overdue ship, three times for a lost one, made a tremendous impression.

What greatly pleased Jacy was the invitation by Lady Eliza, young widow of his friend, Darrell, to complete his unfinished play (Darrell was killed while on air warden duty). He spent two happy weeks at the Sussex home of "Dear Liz", playing with her two children and studying and revising Darrel's notes. When the play was in order, he read it to his critical family, who approved.

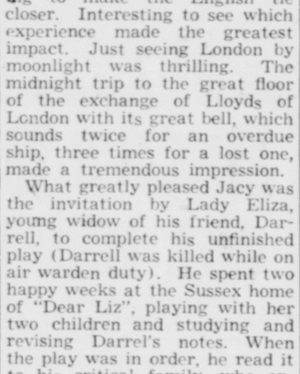

THEN CAME the casting for the performance in the newly reopened Flower Theatre (closed during the war). Family disputes arose and were settled. New problems came up. There were worries about Doffield. About the jubilee which marked uncle Julius' 60 years on the stage. Uncle Julius played his part well. Made a dramatic exit through the new Flower Theatre curtains, and died behind them in a fit of rage at Doffield.

Not long after that uncle Pax died suddenly. Jacy discovered something which made his marriage with Olive impossible. Heartbreaks and disappointments pile up. However when Jacy leaves for Hollywood to attend to pressing affairs there it is with a promise to return and take up uncle Pax's obligations as he wished him to. Who knows what will happen after that?

Hopes Are Delaware Basin Will Get U.S. Flood Control

Mt. Pocono, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP)—A top Pennsylvania conservation official today expressed confidence that the devastating flood that struck northeastern Pennsylvania and New York this summer will accelerate federal flood control activities in the Delaware river basin.

Maurice K. Goddard, secretary of the Pennsylvania Forest and Waters Department, said that the floods produced by Hurricane Diane "gave us a new measuring stick to judge the type and magnitude of floods which can visit this region.

"WE CAN BE ASSURED that the August 1955 flood will spur action for flood control work particularly in the Delaware river basin," he declared in a speech prepared for a session on "the Delaware—Water for Millions" at the annual conference of the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River basin (INCODEL).

Meanwhile, the four commissioners of the agency which takes in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and Delaware were scheduled to take official action today on a suggestion to support a move for an entirely new survey of water resources of the Delaware.

"The matter will come up for discussion at our closed meeting before the final sessions of this conference," said Francis A. Pitkin, INCODEL chairman from Pennsylvania, who mentioned the idea in his annual report yesterday. Originally, the business session of the annual conference was set for Friday morning.

THE CONFERENCE itself ends today with a discussion on "Look What Hurricane Diane Did to Delaware" and a talk on "Let's Take a New Look at the Delaware."

The re-examination to "formulate a comprehensive multiple purpose water resources program for the Delaware river valley" would be undertaken by a new Delaware river basin survey commission, Pitkin suggested.

The group would be composed of citizens "who have not been closely identified with past decisions on Delaware river problems." Members would be chosen by the governors of the four states and the mayors of Philadelphia and New York city.

Goddard indicated that he believes it possible the recent flood "could result in changes in our future over-all flood control planning." But he did not elaborate.

CONGRESS HAS authorized expenditure of 44 million dollars in the Delaware river basin but none of the money has been actually appropriated.

The Pennsylvania official termed a proposed 71 million dollar impounding reservoir at Wallpack Bend, Pike county, Pa., and a diversion dam at Yardley, Bucks county, Pa., as "the best plan to assure adequate and potable future water supply for southeastern Pennsylvania.

He estimated the reservoir would have a 91 billion gallon capacity.

PITKIN SUGGESTED yesterday that a new look at the water resources of the Delaware be made by persons "who have not been closely identified with past decisions on Delaware basin problems."

Pitkin's idea for a new survey of the water resources of the Delaware received support from other officials at the meeting. Among them was Robert W. Morse, mayor of Easton, who said that the "suggestion for a coordinated commission to bring about action certainly makes sense."

In a discussion of water pollution control, John Boardman of Lower Merion Twp., an Incodel engineer, called 1954 "a banner year for municipal sewage treatment plant construction."

He cited completion of treatment works by the cities of Wilmington and Philadelphia and of two other plants in Delaware county, Pa.

"Practically every community in the Delaware valley with a stream pollution potential has taken some steps to reduce that potential," he said.

TROUBLE-SHOOTER—After Egypt announced its decision to buy arms from Russia and Czechoslovakia, Assistant Secretary of State George V. Allen suddenly departed for Cairo. Although the State Department said only that Allen would "discuss current problems" there's little doubt that the No. 1 "problem" is the arms purchase. The acquisition of jet bombers, heavy tanks, heavy artillery and naval vessels by Egypt could spark bitter new fighting with Israel.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

This was written some days in advance of publication because the Ruminator was away for a few days. However, as I had it in mind to discuss some of the angles of "contrary thinking" as it applies to sudden news events the timeliness is unimportant.

You are reading every kind of prediction and opinion these days concerning the future in American politics. Wild—and in many cases, unthinking—guesses started before the President was out of his oxygen tent.

It is possible, of course, that President Eisenhower will issue a statement of some kind before this gets into print. But this seems improbable, inasmuch as there is a stiff rule, as I understand it, in connection with coronary thrombosis; namely, avoid decisions that require tense thought or concentration.

So first of all, then, it is silly to attempt any definite predictions concerning another person's decisions, especially a person in a position of high authority where extraordinary pressures are brought to bear on him.

IT IS ALL very well for us to assume, if we wish, that Ike won't think of accepting a bid for a second term. You and I might agree that it would be most unwise for him to even consider such a step. Still and all, we don't know what is in his mind.

Point two is that the presidential elections are over a year away—the nominations almost a year away.

So much can happen in a month, let alone a year, that there is great danger of going off half-cocked if one commences now to write the political tickets.

For example, how important a part will age play in the coming nominations? Because of the President's unfortunate heart attack, it will emphasize strongly the idea of age in connection with the heavy loads a President carries these days. Some of the men who have been mentioned as possible nominees may find that they are looked upon as being "too old" for consideration. Contrariwise, some young men may gain in prominence because of their age.

"Or take the issue of Russia and Red China. There has been a "softening" of attitude in recent weeks. This could change, of course, at any moment—or there might be a further liberalizing of sentiment toward the Reds. Who knows? A politician who is known to be "tough" in his attitude toward the Kremlin might find himself shouldered out in the cold—or, if ideas shift the let's-be-tough-with-Russia man might find himself the fair-haired boy.

You could run off numerous "iffy" circumstances among which there will be one or two that will shift all present opinions.

A CONSIDERABLE campaign of propaganda will, of course, be followed by the members of the present Administration and Republican hierarchy. If, for instance, they learn that Ike simply cannot think of running for office, there will be strategy formulated, naturally, to gain every advantage from Ike's present popularity. Many suggestions will be made to him—and politicians generally like to try all and every stunt in the book—as to how he can assure a given man a good shot at the Presidency. It will probably even be suggested that he resign, so as to give Nixon a leading shot. However, unless the President suffers further attacks or recovers less slowly than is indicated, this would appear to be a move Eisenhower wouldn't consent to. It would look—unless essential—a bit like stacking the deck, don't you think? Other Presidents who have been ill in office (Garfield, Wilson, Roosevelt) have not relinquished their responsibilities, or delegated them. President Eisenhower, it seems to me, is not the type who would avoid anything which, under the Constitution, appears to be indicated. (There is a difference of interpretation of these matters, as in all legal questions.)

Perhaps most of this discussion seems merely a waste of a reader's time, but the Ruminator has already been asked about the contrary theory as it applies to the present situation. One cannot very well have a contrary opinion until general opinions are crytallized. Because no opinion is valid until the President announces his decision, no contrary opinion is worth anything either.

A common remark today is that "this gives the White House to the Democrats." This, too, is merely jumping to conclusions before anything definite is known If we wish to keep our thinking straight in coming months, we surely need to avoid closing our minds before the actual news is known. Later, contrary opinions may be worth considering.

To School Penn Police On Highway Criminal

Philadelphia, Oct. 6 (AP) — Pennsylvania State Police students will be going to college soon as a means of helping combat "the highway criminal."

Gov. George Leader announced the plan yesterday in a speech before the 62nd Annual Conference of the International Assn. of Police Chiefs.

The students will go to Northwestern University's famed Traffic Institute, which Leader praised highly. The institute was established some years ago for research and the teaching of highway safety administration.

Declaring that the "highway criminal" is one of "America's greatest crime problems," Leader said:

"We average 50 to 60 murders and criminal manslaughter cases a year in Pennsylvania. Compare this with 1,600 annual highway deaths in Pennsylvania. The proportion figures out to something like 33 highway deaths to every one case of murder investigated by homicide detectives."

IRA Men Get Life

Reading, England, Oct. 6 (AP)—Three members of the outlawed terrorist Irish Republican Army (IRA) were under life sentences today for their part in an unsuccessful raid on a British army barracks in August. The trio and at least seven others, posing as British soldiers, stole large quantities of arms and ammunition from an army depot at Arborfield, England, Aug. 13. Scotland Yard operatives recovered the loot from a London hideout. The rest of the raiders were not captured.

Two More Cases Settled in Court

In addition to the 45 civil cases announced settled on the call of the October trial term calendar, three more cases were announced settled Wednesday in Supreme Court. No case was ready for trial and Justice William Deckelmen excused the jurors until Thursday at 10 a. m. and continued pre-trial conferences.

Among the cases settled was an action for negligence previously tried and sent back for retrial when the prior verdict was reversed. It was an action brought by Carolina Rossi of Kingston against Rosaria Naccarato. Plaintiff sought damages for injuries sustained when her car, driven by defendant, was involved in an accident. Saccoman and DiDonna appeared for plaintiff and Arthur B. Ewig for defendant.

ALSO SETTLED was No. 104, Edward W. Brown against Norman Tennenbaum and another, property damage. Roy L. Featherstone for plaintiff and Daniel Decker for defendant.

An action for work, labor and services brought by Henry R. Decker against Benny Benson was announced settled. Thomas J. Plunket for plaintiff and Lounsberry and Lonstein for defendant.

There will be no trial term on Friday, Justice Deckleman being engaged in regular special term here.

THE MARQUEE

T.V. — STAGE — RADIO — RECORDS — PEOPLE

By DICK KLEINER

A FEW FAST FACTS: Liberace is going dramatic. He'll do a sketch on his filmed TV show and has cast himself as Brahms. Robert Hutton and Diana Lynn will appear with him. . . . NBC will try to make a comedian out of Tony Randall, who used to play opposite Wally Cox on "Mr. Peepers." . . . Louis G. Cowan, who dreamed up "The $64,000 Question," says he had no idea his brainchild would be as popular as it is — "In fact, I'm honestly afraid now; afraid of what TV can do. In the wrong hands, TV could split the country in three or four months."

Sid Caesar has a TV drama, "The Funny Man," which he wants to do for NBC-TV. It'll be spotted on one of the network's hour-long drama shows.

CBS-TV is going to turn Sundays — at least the afternoon portions thereof — into public affairs days. There's a new show, "Talk-around," featuring Katherine Copeland and some teen-agers in stimulating conversation. There's "Adventure," the plans for which were detailed here some weeks ago. There are returning shows, like "Let's Take a Trip" and "Face the Nation." There are new shows, like one featuring Eric Sevareid tentatively titled "Sunday With Sevareid." There are shows not yet scheduled, like "Air-power" and some 90-minute "TV giants," as CBS' Director of Public Affairs, Irving Gitlin, calls them.

CBS isn't sparing the horses—or the dollars—in this project. Gitlin says there are 200 people now involved in the network's public affairs program, with the budget "in the millions." He sees this as a sign that "TV is coming of age." All the shows, incidentally, will be seen on Sundays, with the possible exception that one will be switched to the middle of the week.

The one that may be switched? "Sunday With Sevareid." Naturally.

One of the funniest comediennes around these days is a gal named Pat Carroll who can't tell jokes, isn't a comedienne and believes in washing sardines.

Taking these elements individually, Pat says she never could tell a joke. The pretty blonde — who was the star of the lately-folded Broadway review, "Catch a Star" — started out as an actress and began to specialize in character parts and before you could say "Myrtle Power" she was a comedienne.

"I'd go to see producers," Pat says, "and say I was a comedienne and they'd say, 'OK, be funny.' I'd run out fast. I can't be funny like that."

Which is why she says she isn't a comedienne. She deals in characters, and considers herself a "character comedienne." Maybe that's splitting hairs, but they're beautiful blonde hairs so let's not quibble.

Pat was married last January, to an agent, and is currently learning the fine art of cooking. When she first was married, she served her husband champagne and cheese sandwiches (left over from the wedding) for a few weeks.

When those staples ran out she tried a macaroni-and-cheese casserole, but it turned out so hard she had to hit the casserole with a broom handle to dislodge it.

Then she found an exotic recipe for spinach-and-sardines (served to the strains of "The Sand and the Sea," obviously) but her husband caught her washing the sardines, individually, under the faucet. His laughter ended that recipe.

That must be what she means by "character comedienne."

TEMPERANCE AT WEDDING RECEPTION

"What is one supposed to do about serving several relatives and the clergyman, none of whom drink anything alcoholic, at the wedding reception? We're serving champagne and while I know these people won't object to a little temperate toasting of the bride and groom, I think they would feel self-conscious if we emphasized the fact that they took nothing."

I think they would mind very much not having anything to drink—not for the reason you give but because they would certainly want to join the others in drinking a toast to the bride and groom. If you include white grape juice and sparkling water, or ginger ale, the service of this would be taken care of exactly as it is at every formal dinner—the waiter simply asks each one his choice, "ginger ale or champagne?" and then pour according to direction.

Petty Return

Dear Mrs. Post: I spent the weekend at a friend's house and after returning home I discovered that I had forgotten a pair of brand new slippers. I wrote and told my friend about it and she mailed them back to me. After I received the package, I immediately sent her the mailing cost. Now I understand she considered this an insult. Will you please tell me if I was wrong in what I did?

Answer: To send back a few cents was petty. Had the sum been of importance, that would have been another matter.

Paper Napkins

Dear Mrs. Post: Is is proper to use paper napkins on any occasion?

Answer: In a formally appointed house paper napkins are never proper. But since comparatively few houses of today belong in this category, paper napkins are not only decorative on many occasions but are often necessary when the party is of a size out of keeping with the linen supply of the average hostess.

Easy Tomato Salad

Cut the tomatoes in half and top each half with a mound of egg salad. Mash the eggs in making the salad so the mixture will make an easily-managed topping. Serve the stuffed tomato halves on greens; pass French dresing or mayonnaise. A little minced or grated onion added to the egg salad will give it zip.

SUSPENSION BRIDGE CONSTRUCTION

What is Suspension Bridge construction? It is the revolutionary application of a basic engineering principle to the manufacture of fine furniture. Its 6 salient features combine to create free riding, smooth floating support . . . assure sag-less comfort for many, many years.

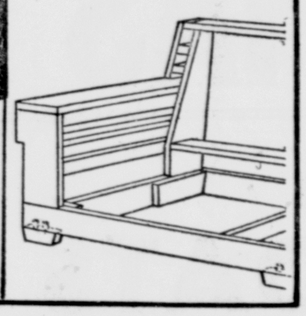

1	2	3	4	5	6
Heavy gauge steel spring cable section—supports anchored in special frame sockets. Patented construction makes separation from frame impossible.	Heavy gauge coil springs and steel supports are uniquely interlocked . . . cannot be separated, are insulated against coil feel with thick layer of latex sisal decking.	High tensile wire lacing locks tops of springs in permanent position, distributes stress evenly in all directions.	Diagonal steel stabilizers, specially designed and insulated, eliminate all coil spring sideway.	A ¼" heavy gauge steel border forms outer edge of seat and creates a smooth, firm regular edge.	Back with patented No-Sag springs, insulated against "spring feel" with high quality rubberized hair on flexible backing. Springs anchored to frame with patented insulated clips.

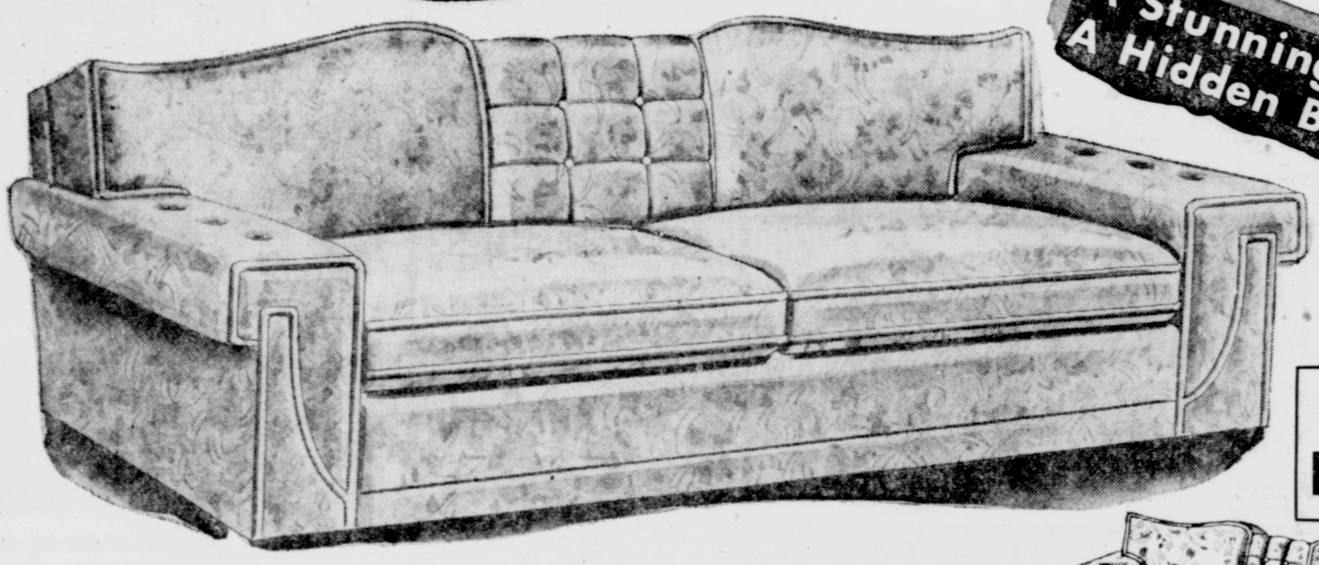

Unirail FRAME CONSTRUCTION

What is Unirail frame construction? It's your assurance of sway-proof comfort. It offers larger joint surfaces at weight bearing points, more solid support, elimination of arm sway and loss of frame alignment.

Solid seasoned hardwood rail extends between the outer edges of both arm sides. Unirail design places weight on solid wood rather than on joints and glue. Weight bearing strength is thus increased by many times.	Extra reinforcement is provided with corner blocking and laminated overlays.	All joints are double doweled (including center arm horizontal reinforcing strip).

Survey Reveals Most Retailers Undershoot Their Potential

Market Target Dial Is Boon to All Advertisers

An important new tool, the Market Target Dial, designed to help retailers take sharp aim at year-end profits was introduced as a special built-in feature of the Fifth Annual Time Table of Retail Opportunities published this week by the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association. At the same time, the Bureau announced the findings of a "test-town" study which showed 60 per cent of the retailers questioned overestimating their own share of the available business and underestimating the volume their local competition was taking away from them.

Offering a valuable clue to any market's full sales potential with a spin of the wheel, newspapers' new Market Target Dial brought such comments as "very valuable" and "of great assistance" from the 24 leading merchants surveyed, representing top women's wear, men's wear, furniture and jewelry stores in the "test-town" of Worcester, Massachusetts. The Market Target Dial, one of the major highlights of the Time Table is being shown to retailers in Kingston by the Kingston Daily Freeman, one of the more than 1,000 daily newspapers, members of the Bureau.

"THE SURVEY showed some merchants underestimating the size of their market by as much as 90 per cent indicating that many businessmen caught in the day-to-day struggle to meet and beat last year's figures were losing sight of the long-range objective of planning to get all the business that is available to them in their own local trading area." Edward H. Burgeson, the Bureau's Retail Director, said, "The Market Target Dial should prove to be a boon to the local and national advertiser, provoking a second look and re-evaluation of sales goals that are both realistic and challenging for the critical months and for the year to come."

The Market Target Dial is built into the presentation section of the Time Table, entitled "One Sure Move to Extra Profits" which newspapers in all parts of the country are using to help retailers and manufacturers alike set up programs of planned advertising in local newspapers towards the goal of added sales volume and increased profits, tapped from their own market potential.

"American retailers known for their advance sales and advertising techniques have long relied upon newsappers—next to on-the-floor selling—as their number one medium for moving merchandise from the shelf to the consumer. The new Time Table of Retail Opportunities and Market Target Dial were designed to help retailers raise their selling sights and make their advertising bid for business even more aggressive and effective," Burgeson said. "If retailers will only realize the full sales possibilities that are ahead of them, and bid for business aggressively and effectively, they can do much to help maintain for themselves and the nation the bright economic picture we now enjoy," he continued.

THE DIAL, a movable wheel, is set on a page in the presentation section of the Time Table and can be turned to show monthly per-family expenditures based on U. S. Census and Department of Commerce figures, in the following types of stores or merchandise: Furniture stores, women's wear, men's wear, department stores, jewelry and watchess, appliance stores, lumber, auto accessory stores, hardware stores and shoes. Alongside the per-family figure is the per cent figure showing the importance of the month to the year's business as a whole.

Then, to quickly pinpoint the approximate market potential for the retailer, the Dial is turned over and with the known per-family expenditure figure, the Dial is lined up to the number of families in the merchant's trading area reached by his local newspaper advertising, and the wheel gives the total expenditure figure in the particular store type. The merchant now has developed a realistic basis from which he can appraise the market, set his goal and decide how much promotional effort is necessary and will pay off.

The monthly dollar volume targets are based on national averages, acting as the starting point for both the newspaper salesman and the merchant to make their own local appraisal.

Celebrating the fifth consecutive year of publication, the Annual Time Table of Retail Opportunities guides the merchant along a path of planning in advance, making the most of every selling opportunity, the hidden as well as the obvious ones. Lively photographs of a "typical" merchant spark the informative, concise 25-page presentation section, "One Sure Move To Top Profits." 1954 national sales and linage data, as well as data for each of the 12 Federal Reserve Districts and Canada are again featured as part of the Time Table.

SEASONAL BREAKDOWNS for 18 store types and over 50 specific merchandise categories appear, as well as seasonal fluctuations in the newspaper advertising of 91 key commodities. In addition, a "Calendar of Selling Opportunities" for October, 1955 through December, 1956, shows dates of traditional merchandising events, special months, days and weeks, number of selling days this year as compared with last year, births and marriages by months.

This year, 22 retailers representing every major trading area in the country joined forces to endorse the principle of coordinating newspaper advertising with window displays and on-the-floor selling to assure maximum return from all three vital phases of their selling effort.

Copyright Bureau of Advertising N.N.P.A., Inc.

DIAL YOUR SALES POTENTIAL says the Bureau of Advertising's Fifth Annual Time Table of Retail Opportunities. Front of dial shows monthly expenditures per family for 10 kinds of merchandise. Reverse of wheel multiplies it out by families in the retailer's own newspaper market as a starting point in resetting monthly sales goals that are realistic and challenging.

Police Blame Arsonist For Market Blaze

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—An arsonist was at fault for a $90,000 fire that wrecked a supermarket Monday in the town of Tonawanda, police said last night.

They said they were looking into two possibilities: (1) That the fire was set to cover up a $3,000 robbery at the place or (2) That the incident stemmed from a beer price-cutting war.

The owners of the Lincoln Park Super Market, Irving Weinstein and his brother, Louis were quoted by the Buffalo Courier-Express as saying they had received numerous telephoned threats since they began selling beer at cut-rate prices.

Detective Sgt. Fred Thomasula of the Buffalo police arson squad said the missing money had been left in the store in a paper bag. He said a robbery was suspected because it was "inconceivable that some scorched remnants" of the money wouldn't be found in the ashes.

"We definitely know the fire was of incendiary origin and have made considerable progress in our study of debris," Thomasula said. He was assisting town of Tonawanda police in the investigation.

Thomasula said it had been determined how the fire was started, but he declined to elaborate.

Huge Bay

Guanabara Bay, on which Rio de Janeiro, capital of Brazil, is located, is large enough to hold the ships of all the navies of the world.

Hurt in Copter Crash

Brockport, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Two navy airmen were injured yesterday when a helicopter "stubbed its tail" on the ground and crashed during an exhibition before 200 college and grade school students. The pilot, Lt. Cmdr. Harry C. Palmatier, USN, 34, of Coudersport, Pa., suffered a hand injury. The other occupant, Frank Boniowski, 32, aviation machinist mate, second class, of North Tonawanda, suffered a cut on his forehead.

Children Die in Fire

Pickering, Ont., Oct. 6 (AP)—Three children died in the burning bedroom of their home near here last night despite efforts of their mother and an older brother to save them. Dead are Eric, 5, Ronald, 7, and Francine, 20 months, children of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gulliver. They were overcome by smoke from a fire started by defective wiring in a corner of the bedroom ceiling.

Wings, Canadiens Still Rated Tops In Hockey League

(By The Associated Press)

Big-time hockey starts another 70-game grind tonight. And it's the same old story—who can stop the Detroit Red Wings and the Montreal Canadiens?

By the time next spring rolls around, the experts figure it will be Detroit and Montreal sitting atop the National Hockey League. Take your pick which one will be first.

The revamped, but apparently as-strong-as-ever Red Wings start things off at home against Chicago Black Hawks while at Montreal, the Canadiens entertain the Toronto Maple Leafs.

THE NEW YORK Rangers open their season tomorrow night in Chicago and the Boston Bruins start their season in Montreal Saturday night.

Since last season no less than 15 players exchanged sweaters and at least another 20 rookies have entered the league.

Detroit underwent the most drastic changes as General Manager Jack Adams thought it was about time his champions took on a new look. As a result, only nine of last season's players are back.

But if last Sunday's All-Star game gave any indication the Wings are no weaker than they were last spring when they captured their seventh straight NHL title and the Stanley Cup for the second year in a row. Detroit beat the All-Stars 3-1.

The Mature Parent

Needed: Some 'Tom Brown' Briefing for Our Young

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

A movie called "Tom Brown's Schooldays" was telecast recently. We saw it.

Remember the story? It blew the lid off the brutalities condoned by the public schools of 19th century England. At Rugby, Tom was forced to sing a song while his fellows hit him with bread pellets and other handy missiles. His hair was pulled; his ears tweaked and boxed. The sole of his feet were whipped. A "roasting" before an upper classman's hearth finally landed him in an infirmary. He asked for no help. The Code commanded silent endurance and the "stiff upper lip."

Now here's an odd coincidence. At the very time that England was mistreating Tom, uncivilized people in other parts of the world were doing the same thing to their youngsters. In painful ceremonies anthropologists call "puberty rites", their witch doctors required submission to anything from the sting of poisonous ants to traditional knife cuts. They, too, demanded the silent endurance—that "stiff upper lip."

Curious, isn't it? One wonders why. Did the primitive people hate their children? Did the civilized, Victorian papas and mamas who blinked at their public schools' abuses enjoy having hurt inflicted on theirs?

I don't think so for a minute. I think they loved their children. And that these deplorable "puberty rites," both savage and civilized, had a protective purpose in mind.

They were, I suspect, "preparation" experiences — "briefings" on the hurts that lie in wait for the young who are unequipped to meet them. They said, I think, "Now you know what an enemy's knife, a malicious person, poisonous ants can do to you. Now you are ready to learn the arts of self-protection."

Certainly Tom was. In the holiday that followed his ordeal at Rugby, he demanded boxing lessons. And on his return, used them to knock out the bully who had persecuted him.

Let me be clear: I disapprove of inflicting pain on children. I think that Rugby's "puberty rites" were outrageous. But if I've read the real intention behind them, I hail it with "Bravo!"

For we go to the other extreme. Our youngsters get no "briefing" at all on the hurts that lie in wait for the unwary. So they bump into them blindly. They don't even know when they've been stung by envy, cut by jealousy, whipped by injustice, much less what to do about it.

Tom Brown learned the facts in four months. He learned that his answers were in himself. What about your son? Does he know that yet? Can he go on singing his own song, no matter what's thrown at him?

Sure, Rugby made Tom learn too fast. That's still no reason to teach our children nothing.

Cyclist, 14, Hurt In Collision With Automobile

The condition of a 14-year-old Kingston boy who was injured early last evening when the bicycle he was driving was in collision with an automobile at Chambers and East Pierpont streets was described as "satisfactory" today at Albany Hospital.

James Bonesteel, of 102 Hasbrouck avenue, suffered a cerebral concussion and possible epidural hematoma, according to his physician's report.

Police said Fred Leo Brandow, 20, of 26 Newkirk avenue, appeared at headquarters shortly after 6:43 p. m. to report the car-bicycle collision. Brandow told police he was driving south on Chambers street in a 1950 sedan owned by William Brandow, same address. He said young Bonesteel struck the right side of his car while driving east on East Pierpont street.

He was removed to Kingston Hospital by Schultz ambulance and transferred to Albany Hospital.

The car received damage to the right front door, according to the report. The bicycle was owned by Paul Pavlidis, of 32 Abeel street, police said.

Campbell was treated and released. Thomas was arrested on a charge of assault third degree and arraigned before Justice of the Peace Fred C. Woolsey of Milton. Judge Woolsey committed him to the Ulster County Jail pending a hearing at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

1,260 New Polio Cases

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Only 1,260 cases of polio were reported last week, the smallest total for the comparable week in six years, the Public Health Service said today. The new cases ran 21 per cent below the 1,604 listed in the week ended Sept. 24. For the year there had been 23,018 cases through Oct. 1, 7,884 of them paralytic. This compares with 28,292, including 10,183 paralytic, in the similar 1954 span.

Everett Manley Joseph Fish, 26, of Skowhegan, Me., was arrested yesterday on a charge of forgery first degree by the Ellenville Police Department. GIRL SCOUTS HOLD PROGRAM—Candlelight Ceremony by the Ulster County Girl Scouts, Inc., was presented as one of the features of the Community Service Night program Wednesday at Kingston High School Auditorium. 700 Attend Chest Program at KHS Wednesday Night

The Community Service Night, sponsored by the six agencies of the Kingston Area Community Chest, attracted more than 700 persons to the Kingston High School Auditorium Wednesday night, Mrs. Max Oppenheimer and Lou Schafer reported today.

There were 142 boys, girls, young adults and others who participated in the six demonstrations. It was an interesting program and educational as it brought out about 20 or more different kinds of program that is found in the regular schedule of activities in all the service agency groups.

MUSIC ON THE Hammond Organ by Ellen Carney, a sophomore in high school, was well received. Besides playing many numbers before the initial curtain she rendered a special selection, "September Song" during a short intermission.

The Boy Scouts did a pantomime number describing three of their various aspects of scouting from eight years of age to 18 years. The YMCA had most of its program described by word of mouth. About 22 girls were in different groups as if to represent their club or "Y" Teens in action. They finished their number with a song.

The Jewish Community Center demonstrated in three parts. The Day Camp group sang songs and demonstrated a dance. The Young Adult Girls put on the Israel Dance. The final group was a songfest by the entire cast of about 34.

The YMCA had a craft group at work making belts, weaving baskets and the narrator told about the Hi-Y club organization as well as the newly-formed committee that is governing the YMCA Youth Center parties and dances of Friday and Saturday nights. A gym group demonstrated a game program and built human pyramids. This was followed by a group representing the "Y" Day Camp. It was hot dog day and while around the charcoal fire some camp program was explained. The final part was a life saving demonstration where boys and girls showed how the various life savers escape from a non-swimmer and how they would carry them in the water. The instructor then used three would-be life savers in demonstrating resuscitation. The art of returning an individual to life by the use of the hands is an art in itself and has to be performed well to be useful.

The Ulster County Girl Scouts, Inc., gave an impressive ceremony of their candlelight service. A scout leader narrated the outline and various parts of the ceremony was displayed by the girl scouts that surrounded a table lined with candles. Each girl had to light her own candle and then state her purpose. The number ended with a song.

THE FINAL CURTAIN showed the Salvation Army. The Army displayed one of the best scenes of the night. On either side of the stage two flags were displayed, the American and the Salvation Army flag. To the left was the Army band. In the center was a young, couple receiving counsel from the army captain. Then the children's group, showed a group in school studying Christian education. The right side of the stage had a cot with a sick patient with a member of the Salvation Army in attendance. The narrator explained each setting and the band rendered two selections Before the final curtain the entire audience rose and sang the Star Spangled Banner with music by the Salvation Band and led by the chairman Lou Schafer.

This is the first combined effort of six agency groups banding together to show the public a little of the service that they are trying to present in the Kingston area.

Student Faces Homicide Charge In Park Slaying

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—A high school student was charged with homicide today in the playground slaying of a young park department employe.

Three other youths have been arrested in the case.

The park employe, 20-year-old Frank Gargiulo, was shot down yesterday in full view of hundreds of mothers and children in a playground section reserved for small youngsters

Last night police arrested Hiram Rosa, 17, as the alleged triggerman in the slaying. Rosa attended the Machine and Metals High School which adjoins the playground at 96th street and 2nd avenue, on the border of East Harlem.

Also seized were David Vargas and John Barnett, both 17-year-old high school students, and a 15-year-old youth whose name was not disclosed.

Police said Vargas and Barnett had been served beer and whiskey in a neighborhood bar shortly after noon yesterday. As a result, a summons was issued last night to Patrick Kerins, owner of the Castle Bar and Grill at 1707 3rd avenue. Kerins was charged with serving liquor to minors.

Sunday School Leader Says Parents Need Aid

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 6 (AP)—Sunday school teachers should try to reach adults as well as children in an effort to combat "parental delinquency," the president of the National Sunday School Assn. says.

By contacting adults, said Dr. Harold W. Erickson, Rockford, Ill., "the American family life can be strengthened, thus helping to combat parental, as well as juvenile delinquency."

Dr. Erickson spoke yesterday at the opening session of the 10th National Sunday School Convention, which attracted a record first-day registration of 1,265 delegates. Ministers are laymen from the United States, Canada and Hawaii are attending the 3-day meeting.

The delegates were told there is a current trend toward return to the attitude that the Bible is the infallible word of God.

"The Sunday schools of America suffered one of the most barren periods in their history during the 1920s and 1930s due to an over emphasis on teaching technique to the neglect of the study of the Bible," Dr. Erickson said.

Shortage Reported

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—An annual audit of the books of the Civil Service Employes Assn. has uncovered an apparent shortage of several hundred dollars, President John Powers said today. Powers said that one employe of the association had been suspended and that a full report would be made to the board of directors when the audit was completed. Powers said he had asked the 80 directors to meet here Sunday night. The employe was not identified.

Flood Toll Now 326

Mexico City, Oct. 6 (AP)—The death toll in flood-battered Tampico mounted today to 326, by unofficial count, as the relentless Panuco river went still higher. Reports from upriver communities of a sharp drop held out some hope of relief for the stricken port within 48 hours. But there were fears the inland rains of the past week would continue, sending the river's headwaters climbing again before Tampico could get a respite.

Cabinet Sworn In

Athens, Greece, Oct. 6 (AP)—The cabinet of Constantine Karamanlis—unexpectedly asked to form a new government to succeed that of the late Field Marshal Alexander Papagos—was sworn in today. King Paul picked Maramanlis to take over the government reins in succession to Papagos, hero of the World War 2 fight against Mussolini's invading legions and the postwar victory over Communist rebels.

LeFever and Floyd Powell for contestants.

A negligence action, Andrew Franciamore and another against Tony Colletti and others, was also settled. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Daniel Decker and Stanley B. Johnson for defendants.

Justice Deckleman continued to hold pre-trial conferences following the opening of court this morning.

Quotes Ike Confidence

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Republic National Chairman Leonard W. Hall quoted President Eisenhower last night as expressing confidence shortly before his heart attack that the Republicans will win next year's presidential election. Hall, who addressed a party dinner, added his own optimism. Hall has said several times it would be inappropriate to speculate whether Eisenhower will run again despite his heart attack. Hall said Eisenhower expressed his cheerful views about the 1956 election a little more than two weeks ago as Hall was leaving Denver following the President's conference there with GOP state chairmen.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Pupils to Have Photos Taken

Woodstock, Oct. 6—The Alston Studio of East Weymouth, Mass., was scheduled to take individual pictures of the school pupils today. The school will secure valuable record pictures, and a packet of portraits will be made available for the parent's inspection.

Joan Boxer left the Woodstock School Wednesday to return to Brooklyn where she will attend school.

The polio shots which were scheduled for this week have been postponed by the Ulster County Board of Health to Oct. 19.

The three De Lisio pupils left for Florida this week. Elizabeth, in kindergarten, David in third and Robin in fifth grade will return to the school in the spring.

Three new children entered school Tuesday morning. They are Alexander Sharp of Ravena in fifth grade; Roberta Young in the fourth grade and her sister Lorraine in the seventh.

Bank deposits for the grades amounted to $222.90 for the three school weeks in September. For the past four weeks a unit has been carried on for the seventh grade girls in grooming and clothing care. The girls have learned the principles of good grooming and have practiced their technique on each other in class. At present a short home project is being undertaken by these girls concerning the care of clothes.

In the near future the seventh grade girls will commence one of their favorite subjects—cooking. Everyone, it is reported, is excited and anxious to begin work in the beautifully equipped new kitchen.

In the eighth grade, the girls have been working together on projects in school and at home also in the fields of good grooming and care of clothing, as well as engaging in home chores. They are looking forward to the next unit of work, sewing, which will begin within the next week or two. These girls will also cover some cooking and child care units before the term is over.

Luxury Prefab House Inspected

Woodstock, Oct. 6 — Visitors inspected the newly completed luxury National Home, the prefab masterpiece which has been built in Bearsville, last Saturday and Sunday.

"The Ridgewood" is a joint presentation of a "typical achievement of America's present day prefabrication industry" by National Homes Corporation, House Beautiful magazine and Ulster Homes, Inc., for which Hendrick A. Wolter is dealer and builder.

The family room takes the most prominent place in its design and the rest of the house surrounds and flows naturally into it and opens out onto a wide covered terrace lending its use to summer activities as well.

In the Bearsville house the color scheme is refreshing, cool and imaginative.

Junior Riding Day Scheduled October 9

Woodstock, Oct. 6—The public is cordially invited to attend the second Junior Riding Day, Sunday, Oct. 9, starting at 10 a. m. The first of the junior days in September was favored with ideal fall weather and it is hoped that a brisk October day will make the Ohayo Mountain ring an attractive spot for many weekend visitors. The Woodstock Riding Club, and its Junior Activities Committee which is sponsoring this series of three Junior Riding Days, is anxious for the residents and visitors in the area to spend at least part of the day watching the ambitious youngsters, who hope to improve their horsemanship in preparation for riding in the big horse shows. They are not only learning the finer points of good horsemanship, but to date they have been having a fine time as well.

Refreshments will be available at the field.

Home Unit Meeting Slated October 11

Woodstock, Oct. 6—The Woodstock Home Demonstration Unit will hold a business meeting, Tuesday, Oct. 11, at 2 p. m., in the basement of the Dutch Reformed Church. Mrs. Therese Duane will supervise the hostesses for the afternoon.

The unit would like to remind residents that it is sponsoring a bus trip to New York on Thursday, October 20, leaving the village green at 7 a. m. Reservations must be made by October 11, by calling Mrs. Daisy Montgomery or any other member of the unit. Anyone outside the Home Demonstration Unit may make a reservation for the trip.

Final Date for Paying Water Bills Is Oct. 14

Woodstock, Oct. 6 — Mrs. Marjorie Harder, town clerk, would like to remind residents that Oct. 14 is the final date for the payment of water bills without penalty. After that date a five per cent levy will be imposed.

Robert J. Gordon, a trustee of the Woodstock School District No. 2, announces that the deadline for the school tax is Wednesday, Oct. 12. There will be a penalty of five per cent charged after that date.

Legion Auxiliary To Hold Tea, Oct. 9

Woodstock, Oct. 6—The Legion Auxiliary, Post 1026, announces that a tea will be held on Saturday, Oct. 9, from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. for members and prospective members of the organization. It will be held at the Legion Hall and there will be entertainment and music.

List Sermon Subjects At Reformed Church

Woodstock, Oct. 6—The subject of the sermon to be delivered by the Rev. Harvey I. Todd on Sunday, Oct. 9, will be "What the Bible Is For," at the 11 a. m. service, at the Woodstock Reformed Church.

The Lydian Society will postpone its October meeting one week to Oct. 19, when the members will attend a luncheon to be prepared at the Le Gourmet restaurant in High Woods.

Sunday, Oct. 16, will be observed as Laymen's Sunday and Fred Toms is working on a program based on the Scripture verse as a theme, "Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only." Several laymen in the congregation have already promised to cooperate, and in another week the entire program will be published. It is always interesting to hear what the pew has to say about the religion, which the minister lays before his people Sunday by Sunday. It is important that the Laymen's and the Minister's religion be alike, and it is still more important that they be like the religion that suits God Himself. This is where the 'doer' part of the Scripture verses come in.

Funds for the Mildred W. Todd Memorial Organ are coming in at an accelerated rate. The thermometer appearing on the Green made by Mrs. Fred Toms indicates progress being made and shows the goal ahead.

Church Council Backs Exchange of Visits

Pittsgurgh, Oct. 6 (AP)—A proposal for an exchange of visits by Russian and American clergymen has the backing today of the General Board of the National Council of Churches.

The board approved the proposal last night at a session of the group's quarterly meeting.

Also approved was a resolution asking the council to tell the State Department of its concern over the "plight of the Greek minority in Turkey" and the damage to Greek Orthodox Churches in rioting there last month.

The resolution on the Russian visit was passed with one abstention.

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, head of the board, said earlier he had discussed the proposed exchange of visits with the State Department which "raised no obstacle in principle."

Hiss Condition Good

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Alger Hiss was reported in "very good" condition today at New York Hospital. A hospital spokesman declined to say why the former State Department official is in the hospital. Hiss, 50, made his last required report to a parole officer four days before he entered the hospital Sept. 27.

New Kiwanis Governor

Monticello, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Walter J. Naber, of Rockville Centre, N. Y., yesterday was elected governor of New York state Kiwanis clubs. Naber succeeds Dr. Lawrence C. Hall, of Schenectady. Charles F. Rand, of North Tonawanda, was chosen secretary at the organization's annual convention.

Gordon Lovell Speaks At Teachers Meeting

The Ulster County Teachers Association held a meeting Oct. 3 at the State Teachers College in New Paltz and Gordon Lovell, director of education at IBM was the guest speaker.

Kenneth Hasbrouck, president, conducted the meeting, and Dr. William J. Haggerty, president of the college, welcomed the group.

Mr. Lovell, a graduate of Colgate University, stated that business can give us more today because people know more. Mr. Lovell felt that just a high school education is no longer sufficient in this area and that further studies and training could lead to greater success. The need for good minds is greater today both for the home and in business.

Mr. Lovell pointed out that employers look for certain character traits in their employes and some of these include honesty, loyalty, neatness, self-assurance, sense of humor, alertness, dependability, energy and enthusiasm.

Reginald Bennett, Clarence Johnson and Lester Roosa conducted the regular business meeting that followed. Workshops were held during the afternoon session.

Members of the association decided to attend the Southeastern Zone annual meeting to be held in Poughkeepsie on Monday, Oct. 17.

Harahap's Moslem Masjumi party was running fourth, behind the Moslem Orthodox radicals and the Communists as well as the Nationalists. The prime minister, whose friendliness to the West contrasts with Nationalist coolness, has said he will step down only after the new parliament is organized early next year.

Yellow Jackets overcame a four-point deficit at the half (24-20) to whip Blacktops. Bucky Miller contributed 16 points, with Paul Stokes and John Burris sharing 21. Ronnie Marks hit with 12 for Blacktops.

BILL DUBOIS' 20 points paced Empire Diner's victory over Wimpy's. The Diners cracked the game wide open with a 25-point second period after leading 12-10 at the 8-minute mark.

John Godwin had 10 points for Empire. Don Hobart led the Grills with 13.

A HAPPY DAY FOR THE PODRES FAMILY — Mrs. Joseph Podres, mother of Brooklyn Dodger pitcher Johnny Podres, receives a kiss from her seven-year-old son, Tom, when he came to their Witherbee, N. Y., home from school, Oct. 5. Mrs. Podres was "so excited over all the news" that her son had pitched the Dodgers to their first world championship with a 2-0 win over the New York Yankees in the seventh World Series game Oct. 4. (AP Wirephoto).

THE HERO RELAXES — Johnny Podres, who pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers to their first world championship, relaxes with a smile at Brooklyn's Hotel Bossert, Oct. 5. The lefthander hurled two winning games against the New York Yankees, the second being a 2-0 win which clinched the title for the Dodgers. (AP photo).

Situation Normal, But . . .

Dodgers Will Divide Shares Worth $9,864

By ORLO ROBERTSON

New York, Oct. 6 (AP) — The situation in Brooklyn once again is normal but it'll be many a day before the last word is uttered on how the Brooklyn Dodgers won their first world baseball championship.

The shouting and tumult that followed the Dodgers final game triumph over the proud New York Yankees had ebbed today but it didn't take much prompting to send a Flatbush fan off on the clutch pitching of Johnny Podres, the great catch of Sandy Amoros in the seventh game, the slugging of Duke Snider or the spirited play of Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson.

MEANTIME the Brooklyn players scattered to all sections of the country to await their World Series checks. The Yankees packed their bags for an exhibition tour of the Far East starting Saturday.

The final figures on the payoff of the players were expected today. But it was estimated each of the 32 full Dodger shares would be worth about $9,684 and each of the 36 losing Yankee shares $5,739.

The money comes out of the players' pool from the first two games, amounting to $654,853.59. Thirty per cent of the pool goes to players on the teams finishing second, third and fourth in each league. The Dodgers get 60 per cent and the Yankees 40 of the remaining 70 per cent.

The seven-day series attracted 362,310 fans and record net receipts of $2,337,515.34.

For some of the Dodgers there will be very little let-up from baseball. Don Newcombe, the team's 20-game winner who failed in the first game, will join the Giants' Willie Mays in heading an exhibition tour of major league players.

AMOROS, FOR whom a big welcome is awaiting in Cuba, will play in the winter league, which opens Friday. Don Zimmer, Dixie Howell and relief pitcher Ed Roebuck, also are signed up for winter play.

Although Manager Walt Alston has not signed a contract for next year, President Walter J. O'Malley has said the 43-year old ex-school teacher will be back.

O'Malley saw in the Dodger triumph a fresh impetus to the plans for building a new Brooklyn stadium in the Atlantic and Flatbush sections.

"Right now the matter is pretty much out of our hands," he said. "But I don't see how anyone could want to see the Dodgers leave Brooklyn. Certainly we don't want to go anywhere else and I am now more confident than ever that something will turn up which will enable us to build a new home befitting the world champions."

O'Malley previously said the Dodgers must have a new home by 1957 and has expressed the opinion they might have to move out of Brooklyn unless a suitable site could be found for a new stadium.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

A sad, last look at the 1955 World Series:

The best team in baseball won it. The best the American League had to offer just wasn't good enough in the clutch, its traditional trademark.

The American League has dropped two straight World Series and with the Yankee hex over Brooklyn now just a myth, you wonder when the junior circuit will ever take another one.

Any team that is blanked for 16 consecutive innings in the two pivotal games of the series doesn't deserve to win.

Mickey Mantle, swinging his bludgeon through seven games, might have made a difference. But to an unfortunate Yankee fan who watched them lose four times, the conclusion that the Dodgers were the better club was inescapable.

The Dodger fan must shudder at the unholy thought of losing Duke Snider for seven games. But they had a guy named Labine.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Labine's stout relief pitching, Snider's booming bat and Podres' incredible hurling were the Dodger keys. The World Series has a funny way of spawning baseball heroes. If Carl Erskine, Don Newcombe and Billy Loes had been in form, you might never have heard of Johnny Podres. Matter of fact you couldn't buy a Podres button from the hawkers around Yankee Stadium or Ebbets Field. The Witherbee, N. Y., southpaw lyooked like a 25-game winner, but you remembered he hadn't finished his last 13 starts for the Brooks. He could go on to real greatness or become another Johnny Beazley. . . . The Dodger dynasty solidified itself with the tremendous series victory and Leo Durocher should be happy he'll be spending the 1956 summer in Hollywood.

• Of Men and Mice:

The Dodgers and Yankee managements were lavish in their hospitality to members of the working press. The Bossert in Brooklyn and Biltmore in New York reeked with good food and spiritual uplifts. . . . One of the series myths shattered was that a team losing the first two games never wins the series. . . . You watched the Yankees drop three straight at Ebbets Field and wondered how they could ever beat Brooklyn. The Yankees were helpless before the Dodger relief hurlers, but the Bob Turley who mopped up the last two times for the Yankees, could be a terrific hurler in 1956. He literally blew the ball by the mesmerized Brooks.

From the mouths of the rabid Ebbets Field denizens come some of the sharpest jibes in baseball. When the Yankees were switching pitchers and pinch hitters in boxcar lots Sunday, one wag yelled: "Hey, Casey, why don't you bring Johnny Mize in." A moment later: "Hey, Casey, where's Allie Reynolds?" The Yanks could have used both. Best rumor around press headquarters was the one that Bill Rigney wouldn't finish the 1956 season at the Polo Grounds and Eddie Stanky would move in from Milwaukee.

Podres murdered the Yankee right hand power with changeups and was quick enough when he had to pour it through. The "old Yankees" would have broken the game wide open if given a chance like the one they got when Yogi Berra's "double" fell between Snider and Gilliam. Batten down the hatches, American Leaguers, the Dodgers are here to stay. . . . Thank heavens for the end of another old baseball myth. Nevermore will we hear, we hope, the perennial lament from the Gowanus, "wait until next year."

We made the return trip from New York with Fred Davi, Matty Reynolds, Vic Ruzzo and Matty Perry. There was a funeral cortege to end funeral corteges.

Podres' Neighbors Arrange Wing-Dinger of Welcome

Witherbee, Oct. 6 (AP)—Neighbors of Johnny Podres have arranged a homecoming parade for Saturday after failing to find a building in town big enough to hold all who wanted to honor the Brooklyn Dodgers' pitcher.

A celebration committee last night scrapped plans to hold a victory dinner for the 23-year-old lefthander who shut out the New York Yankees in the final game of the World Series. It reported there was no structure in the Adirondack hamlets of Witherbee and Mineville that would hold "the thousands who wanted to come."

PETER BETRUS principal of Mineville High School, said the committee did not want to have any of Johnn's friends left out. The two hamlets have a combined population of 2,384.

The parade will start at noon, wind through Witherbee and end at the Mineville High School, where Podres was a star pitcher. In ceremonies at the the high school athletic field, he will receive a gift and his neighbors will tell him how much they think of him.

Johnny is expected home tomorrow night or early Saturday. Among those waiting for him are his mother, Mrs. Joseph Podres, who has not seen him in the flesh since he took a day off in August.

SHE VISITED neighbors and shopped all day yesterday then went to bed early. "She can't get over it," said Mary Podres, his 17-year-old sister.

Also waiting is Johnny's girl friend Miss Naomi Baker, 18, of neighboring Port Henry, and three younger brothers.

Ray Miller, president of the Town of Moriah Chamber of Commerce, is chairman of the celebration. Bands will come from Montreal, Fort Edward, Lake Placid and Burlington, Vt. Fife and drum corps will be sent by the American Legion and three local fire departments.

Mineville High School is scheduled to play football at Lake Placid but Betrus said the school was trying to have the game switched to Mineville.

Sooner Back Best of Week

(By The Associated Press)

One of the principal reasons why Oklahoma was able to whip Pittsburgh and keep football's longest winning streak going through its 21st game last Saturday was halfback Tommy McDonald.

Tommy scored two touchdowns on runs of 43 and nine yards, raced 23 yards on a key play in another Sooner scoring drive and racked up an impressive 124 yards by rushing as Oklahoma turned back the big eastern team 26-14. In addition he hit two of five passes for 39 yards.

In recognition of this fine all-around performance, the nation's sports writers and broadcasters participating in the weekly Associated Press poll today picked McDonald as the season's first Back of the Week.

The experts had named Wisconsin's pass-catching end, Dave Howard, as lineman of the week by a big margin for his feats against Iowa.

Michigan Seeks First Victory Over Cadets

Marciano Finds Himself Without Logical Foes

Milwaukee, Oct. 6 (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano has pounded a big gap between himself and the rest of the division with his hammer-like fists, according to today's quarterly ratings of the National Boxing Assn.

The NBA believes the gap is the widest it has been since Marciano became champion three years ago and doesn't bother to list a logical contender.

"MARCIANO has punched his way out of good opponents," said Fred Saddy, chairman of the NBA rating committee in a statement. "We are listing Bob Baker, Nino Valdes and Tommy Jackson as the outstanding boxers in the heavyweight division."

Saddy suggested that Baker, Valdes and Jackson engage in an elimination tournament, the winner to meet Marciano. He said that would be the best way to provide a logical contender.

97,239 Expected For Game of Day

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 6 (AP)—Army's point-a-minute powerhouse runs into Michigan's strong defense this Saturday in the resumption of college football's "million dollar" series.

Michigan expects to fill its 97,239-seat stadium, but the size of the crowd is not the main question. It's this: Will Michigan finally defeat Army?

Since it started playing football in 1879, Michigan has beaten every team on its schedule at least with two exceptions—Army and Wesleyan.

The Cadets have taken the Wolverines five straight times since 1945. Although they are a touchdown underdog this Saturday, many feel they will make it No. 6.

MICHIGAN MET Wesleyan only once—in 1883. The little Connecticut school won, 14-6. It's not likely they will ever get together again, except perhaps for a friendly game of ping-pong.

The natural appeal of Army vs. Michigan—usually the best of the East vs. the best of the Midwest—has been a financial boon to both institutions.

Thus far, the five-game series has drawn 377,310 spectators—an enormous average of 62,885 per game.

The series started in Yankee Stadium in 1945. Glenn Davis raced 70 yards for one touchdown and Doc Blanchard 69 for another as Army won 28-7.

Army won 20-13 in 1946, then there was a two-year lapse before the Cadets won again in 1949, breaking Michigan's 25-game winning streak 21-7 before 97,239 in Ann Arbor.

THE SERIES went back to Yankee Stadium in 1950 with Army's margin 27-6 this time. Last fall Army, a touchdown underdog, won 26-7.

The Cadets bring an imposing offensive mark into this year's game—116 points in 120 minutes. They rolled past Furman 81-0 and Penn State 35-6.

Michigan opened with a 42-7 romp over Missouri and followed with a 14-7 squeak against rival Michigan State, stopping the Spartans with a display of old-time defensive football.

Some observers felt Michigan played cautiously, refusing to reveal its hand to the Army scouts charting the game.

The Wolverines are ranked No. 2 in the weekly Associated Press Poll, Army No. 6. With a convincing victory over the Cadets, Michigan could challenge Maryland for its No. 1 spot.

Fred Hutchinson New Card Pilot?

Seattle, Oct. 6 (AP) — The Post-Intelligencer said today Freddie Hutchinson will be signed within a few days as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Baseball League.

The paper, without naming sources, said Hutchinson, manager of the Pacific Coast League pennant-winning Seattle Rainiers, is the personal choice of Frankie Lane, who reportedly is to take over the job of general manager of the Cards tomorrow.

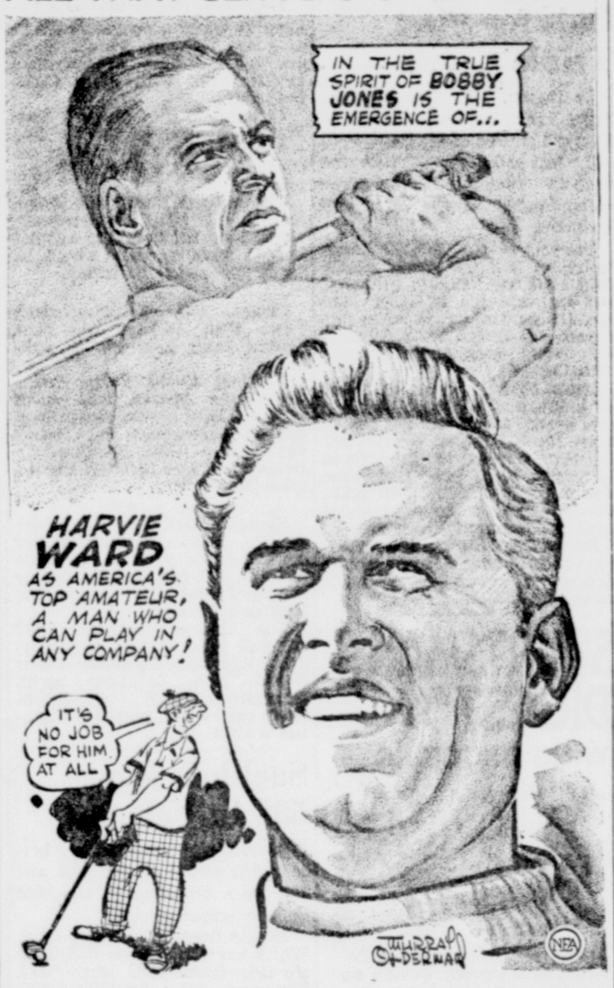

Hutchinson managed Detroit from the middle of 1952 until the conclusion of the 1954 season.

Chavez Whips Glen Flanagan In Real Stinker

Richmond, Calif., Oct. 6 (AP)—Boxing fans who stayed away by the thousands from last night's nationally televised bout between Eddie Chavez and Glen Flanagan congratulated themselves today. They were able to turn off their sets.

The 615 who paid their way into the Richmond Auditorium weren't that lucky. They sat through—but not silently—a dull 10-rounder in which Chavez, of San Jose, was given an unanimous decision over Flanagan of St. Paul, Minn.

"SOMEBODY hit somebody," pleaded the fans who paid $2,468 gross.

Flanagan, who weighed 139½ to Chavez' 139, was on his bicycle most of the time. Chavez caught up with him often enough, but immediately was caught himself in an octopus-like tangle of arms. Flanagan was warned repeatedly for holding by Referee Frankie Brown, but was not penalized.

Referee Brown scored the bout 58½-51½, Judge Jack Downey 58-52, Judge Ray Flores 59-51.

Bertholf Shoots 279 In IBM Tenpin League

Howard D. Bertholf, a member of the Shrimps squad in the IBM Superior League came up with a 279 single in last night's competition.

Bertholf rolled it the hard way, too, firing 11 strikes in a row after a first frame split. He thus becomes eligible for the ABC's 11-in-a-row club.

The 279 came in the first game and was followed by counts of 159 and 169 for a 603 series.

CLIFTON QUICK, the major leaguer, finally settled in the groove with a 631 slam on lines of 227, 215 and 189.

Pete Battaglia toppled 572, G. Anderson 200-538, R. Hoban 500, Miles 512, B. Hassinger 228-584, Kalcinski 214-568, Paul Stevenson 520.

Two other "600" keglers were Birchall with 633 on 224-213-16 and R. Wilson 626, via 204-210-212. W. Adams rolled 549, Russ Lombardo 545.

Ted Undecided About Baseball

Bangor, Me., Oct. 5 (AP)—Ted Williams says he hasn't decided whether he'll be playing baseball again next season.

During a brief stop-over yesterday—on a flight from a New Brunswick fishing trip—the Boston Red Sox outfielder said:

"You know, it's funny. At the end of every season it's the same thing. You swear this will be your last one, but, heck, when spring rolls around you get itchy again. Honestly, I haven't decided yet."

Scott Frost Bids for First Triple Crown

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 6 (AP)—Scott Frost, perhaps the top 3-year-old trotter of all time, went atfer full claim to that title and harness racing's first triple crown today in the Kentucky Futurity.

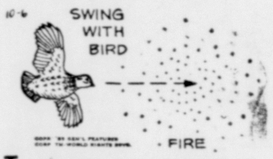

Winner of the $85,000 Hambletonian and the newly established $70,000 Yonkers Futurity, the stalwart son of Hoot Mon faced a field of seven other fine 3-year-olds in the $62,702 futurity over Lexington's famed "Red Mile."

Scott Frost, winner of 16 of 19 heats and a record $121,673 this season for owner Sol Camp, drew the No. 6 post position for the 63rd renewal of the coveted futurity. First heat post time was 2 p. m. (CST), with additional heats at hour intervals with the required two wins.

Driver Joe O'Brien, who shoots for victories rather than records, figured to break the Futurity record of 1:59¼.

Football Briefs

Hamilton, Oct. 6 (AP)—Bill Usinger is being groomed to fill in at guard for Jim Yurak if it proves necessary in Colgate's gridiron tilt with Holy Cross Saturday.

Usinger and tackle Tom Powell did most of the tackling yesterday when the Red Raiders brushed up their ground defense.

The injured Yurak and Ralph Antone, his chief replacement, worked out briefly but it was not known whether they would be ready for action Saturday.

Ithaca, Oct. 6 (AP)—Cornell Capt. Dick Jackson has been shifted from halfback to fullback.

Syracuse, Oct. 6 (AP)—Syracuse coach Ben Schwartzwalder worked today on ways to bottle up Capt. Ken Hagerstrom, speedy wingback and pass receiver for Boston University.

The Orange football squad stressed pass defense in yesterday's workouts. Syracuse meets Boston here Saturday night. Hagerstrom caught two touchdown passes last year when Boston won, 41-19.

HEADS ROTC BATTALION—William J. Reilly, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Reilly of Eddyville, has been promoted to the rank of Cadet Lt. Colonel and appointed commander of the ROTC battalion at Siena College, Loudonville. His appointment was announced on Sept. 13 by James F. Kudrna, Lt. Colonel, Artillery, PMC&T. Announcement also was made at that time of the promotion of John E. Mack and Richard A. Roth to the rank of Cadet Major, and William J. Tompkins, Edward P. Leonard and Thomas J. Berger to the rank of Cadet Captain. All will be members of the Battalion staff. He is a graduate of St. Joseph's Parochial School and Kingston High School. An accounting major, he served as treasurer of the Student Senate in his junior year at Siena. Now a senior, he is presently serving the Senate as one of the two Representatives-at-Large. He is a member of the golf team, has played intramural football and basketball, and is a member of the Boarders Club. Col. Reilly was one of seven Siena students to be designated a Distinguished Military Student prior to leaving for summer camp at Fort Sill, Okla., last summer. At the camp, he was rated fifth in his battery, and among the top 10 per cent of the 256 DMS's from every part of the country.

Jet Probe Oct. 24

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—A House Government Operations Subcommittee has set Oct. 24 for the opening of a hearing to "establish responsibilities" for the purchase of jet fighters which the navy found underpowered for carrier service. Chairman Holifield (D-Calif.), announcing the hearings yesterday, told Secretary of the Navy Thomas "the best interests of the navy and the public would be served" by laying out the "relevant facts." Thomas has blamed the difficulties with the F3H1 jet Demons on "inadequate" procurement procedures in effect under the previous administration.

All Evidence In

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—All the evidence was in today in the contempt of Congress trial of author Harvey O'Connor, who testified he did not think any congressional committee had a right to ask him whether he was a Communist. Federal Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy, conducting the trial without a jury, was ready to hear closing arguments from both sides. Defense motions for acquittal were awaiting a court ruling.

Schick Lauds

of directors, could not attend.

Also introduced by President Murphy were:

Blaine Wright, Napanoch, former director; Raymond Schuler, former supervisor of the Fourth Ward; Stanley Petro, former supervisor of the Third Ward; Frank Burr and Harold Van Bramer, commissioners of the Kingston Fire Department; Percy Gazlay, justice of the peace, town of Rochester; Police Sgt. Harold Mills, town of Saugerties and Irwin J. Thomas, assistant city editor of The Freeman.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John, as master of ceremonies, first introduced Louis G. Bruhn who said he had received a telephone call from Federal Judge John M. Cashin expressing his sincere regrets for his inability to attend the dinner. Mr. Bruhn, pointing to the many years of activity with the jurors, said he was pleased, as a member of the Kingston Board of Education, that the Rules Commitee of that group, went along with the association's juvenile delinquency recommendations.

John V. Harding, new superintendent at the Napanoch Institution for Male Defective Delinquents, who has been in the penal correction system for 26 years, said he looked forward to continued close ties with the jurors. He said "this has been my fourth institution during my career and I have never before encountered such relationship as I have here in Ulster county." Superintendent Harding praised the jurors for their spendid work and expressed the wish that such an association could be spread throughout the state to become interested in penal affairs.

Lloyd V. Wilklow, assistant superintendent at Napanoch, said "we at Napanoch, and I mean both the officers and inmates, get more out of your annual visits than you can possibly give. The morale at the institution soars following such visitations."

Edwin Ashby, commissioner of jurors, also spoke briefly.

Judge Kelly, in introducing the guest speaker, referred to Mr. Schick as being one of the best assistant district attorney's Ulster county has ever had. Judge Kelly said he had been aided immeasureably already by Mr. Schick's cooperation.

After relating the possible causes and treatments of juvenile delinquency, the assistant district attorney outlined what has been done in the past to cope with the problem.

He said the Federal interest has been mainly through the publications of various articles. In the state, he added, there has been increased interest, rather than the mere form of treatment of individuals.

This attitude, he said, began in 1943 when Governor Thomas E. Dewey appointed a commission to report its findings in 1945. In that year the youth commission was formed and the main feature was making grants to local areas to help in providing recreation for the youth.

Here in 1955, the speaker continued, the state legislature formed a commission, headed by Thomas J. Watson, Jr., of IBM, and including State Senator Arthur H. Wicks. This committee has been holding regional hearings throughout the state and will report its findings for the 1956 Legislature.

Mr. Schick said the new commission will consider two particular features—1. state-wide teenage curfew and 2. fines for parents.

He reminded his listeners that the Common Council in Kingston already has passed a teenage curfew and steps are now being taken to see if the Board of Supervisors can extend this to a county-wide operation.

All in all, the speaker went on to say, the primary responsibility in this unending fight rests with the parents, the church, the community and even those adults without children. "They all pay taxes and it is their problem," he said.

Concluding his talk Mr. Schick urged everyone to ask their supervisors to accept grants from the state recreational facilities and to take an active part in all agencies fighting juvenile delinquency.

The group stood in five minutes silence in memory of Thomas J. Hanlon, former Napanoch superintendent and in memory of the late Frank Elliott, former supervisor of the town of New Paltz.

Members of the dinner committee were Mrs. Raymond Schuler, chairman; Anna M. Ashdown, F. Leslie Garrison, Ward Dierfelter, Percy Croswell, Edmund Zeidler and Chester Elliott.

Dixie Brand entertained at piano during the dinner.

Phone Development Described at Rotary

Howard Davenport of Albany, who has been connected with the New York Telephone Company in the commercial department for the past 38 years, related the story of the telephone to the members of the Rotary Club at its luncheon held Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The speaker reviewed the developments of the telephone system down through the years since its discovery by Alexander Bell in 1876.

Continuing experimentation with new inventions, which also were described by Mr. Davenport revealed greater strides in the development of the telephone in the years ahead.

An invitation was extended the Rotarians to visit the company's central office building, where open house was being held in observance of the 75th anniversary of telephone service in Kingston.

Rita Has Grippe

Paris, Oct. 6 (AP)—Rita Hayworth sent word down from her hotel room today that she has the grippe. She canceled a scheduled news conference. She came to Paris earlier this week with her daughters Rebecca and Yasmin. While Yasmin was turned over for a six weeks stay with her father, Prince Aly Khan, Rita has been taking Rebecca—daughter of actor Orson Welles—around the Paris museums and tourist places.

Farm Aid . . .

from all sources is 11 per cent higher than in 1955, that all farm assets are down three billion dollars from the peak of 163 billions and that seven out of 10 farmers have no mortgage debts.

It said that farmers own enough assets such as cash and bonds to more than pay their debts. The sheet added in parentheses this qualifying statement: "These are totals and do not reflect individual farm debt situations."

The sheet said land values are going up, that farm machinery purchases are up 20 per cent from last year, that production and consumption of farm products are now nearly in balance.

It said farm surpluses are expected to work gradually down starting in 1956. It stated that about $2,593,000,000 had been spent since 1952 by the government on "programs primarily for stabilization of farm price and incomes" compared with $1,417,000,000 in the preceding three years.

The sheet said farm research, education, farm credit, water and soil conservation, rural electrification and telephone, disaster relief, timber conservation and oher farm programs have been grealy advanced under the present administration.

Sees President

with what Humphrey has been saying, that pending completion of firm federal budget estimates next January there is no assurance of tax slashes next year.

"I can assure you there are no plans developing on a tax program," Smith said, and not "until we get the facts together and look over the whole situation is there any assurance there could be any tax cuts at all."

The Treasury representative indicated an important part of the whole picture from the Treasury's viewpoint would be whether a balanced budget is in prospect. Humphrey has declared the budget can and should be balanced by next June 30.

Nixon Camp

is President Eisenhower but that if the President doesn't run he will seek control of this state's convention votes as a favorite son—and only nominal—candidate.

Hinshaw declared California's "authentic national leaders" are Chief Justice of the United States Earl Warren, Vice President Nixon and U. S. Sen. William F. Knowland, all Republicans.

"It would be pure folly," said Hinshaw, "for the Republicans of California to turn aside from the capabilities offered by such men to pander to the personal ambitions of a purely synthetic candidacy such as Mr. Knight's."

KREHBIEL SAID in his statement:

"Gov. Knight by his conduct in injecting partisan politics while the President is confined to his hospital bed forfeits any right he may have had to enter the national picture. He certainly doesn't belong in the class of such outstanding men as Vice President Nixon and Sen. Knowland."

Gov. Knight said he had heard rumors that California supporters are planning to enter their own slate of convention delegates in the California primaries next June in the event Eisenhower is not a candidate for the nomination.

Four Injured

injuries to his right shoulder and abrasions of the right side about 10:45 p. m. yesterday when the car, driven by Mr. Marinaccio, traveling north on Route 9W on Russoff's Hill, town of Marlborough, went off the right side of the road, hit a telephone pole and continued into a tree. Trooper J. Girton of the Highland Station reported. The car traveled about 180 feet after leaving the highway, it was reported. They were treated at St. Luke's Hospital.

There are about 90,000,000 fibers in a pound of cotton.

Complete Checkup Planned for Ike

Denver, Oct. 6 (AP) — Another cheering bulletin came from President Eisenhower's bedside today. He had eight and one-half hours of sound and refreshing sleep.

The President's recovery from his heart attack progressed to the point that his staff began to talk hopefully of the future.

The 7 a. m. (MST) medical bulletin said:

"THE PRESIDENT had another good night. He slept soundly and almost continuously for eight and a half hours, from 9:30 p. m. to 6 a. m.

"He awoke feeling refreshed and relaxed. The President's condition continues to progress satisfactorily without complications."

The private opinion, which no one would put into words for quotation, was that the crisis has passed, and that the President soon will be taking a firmer hold on administration policy.

A COMPLETE examination is scheduled this weekend when Dr. Paul Dudley White returns to Denver. He will join the staff of Presidential physicians for a thorough-going checkup on their patient on the eighth floor of Fitzsimons Army Hospital.

White, the noted Boston heart specialist, will fly here Saturday with Sherman Adams, assistant to the President and his chief deputy in the wide field of administrative operation. Adams flew back to Washington yesterday for meetings of the National Security Council and the cabinet.

jority in the Assembly once it reaches a vote. By forcing a vote on his entire government program, however, the premier may be able to stave off the reckoning until after the Big Four Ministers Conference in Geneva late this month.

THE CABINET at its meeting had to sort out the pros and cons of what to do about replacing Sultan Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa, who has been eased out of office to retirement in Tangier. Before leaving, the Sultan delegated his powers to a cousin.

The question now is whether the government can go ahead with its plan for a three-man regency, or whether the Sultan has blocked such a move by his delegation of powers. Faure's plan called for creation of a new government including Nationalists under the regency and re-

Walks Out of Talks

Geneva, Switzerland, Oct. 6 (AP)—France has walked abruptly out of important trade talks with Russia and the other Soviet bloc countries, it was disclosed today. The talks were sponsored by the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (UNECE). It was understood the walkout was a further French protest against the UN General Assembly's Soviet-supported decision to place the Algerian question on its agenda.

"THAT MEANS, among other things, that we must be alert to changes in economic conditions and be ready to adapt our policies promptly to them. A program of monetary and fiscal restrainis could be carried too far, just as it could stop short of what is needed."

Burns made no mention of the recent fluctuations of the stock market. But he said that thanks to government measures taken so far in 1955, including credit curbs, "although we have not escaped entirely the excesses of prosperity during the past year, we have succeeded to a considerable degree in keeping them in check."

HE SAID the gross national product—the dollar value of the nation's total output of goods and services—has reached an annual rate of 350 billion dollars or better, and continued:

"We have thus arrived at the threshold of a 400 billion dollar economy. The challenge posed by today's prosperity is to cross this line and go well beyond it.

"We may be confident of doing so in the near future if public policies continue to encourage individual initiative and enterprise . . . and if private citizens together with their government continue to resist courageously any tendencies that may develop toward either recession or inflation."

AMONG THE "favorable" factors Burns mentioned were high production and employment, "satisfactory" profits, investment going forward at a good pace, and unemployment "close to an irreducible minimum" except in some scattered localities.

He said not all branches of agriculture, however, are enjoying a full measure of prosperity, adding:

"Obstinate surpluses of several crops have tended to restrict or reduce growers' incomes. Droughts, freezes, and floods have wrecked havoc on crops in scattered sections. Pockets of relative poverty, urban as well as rural, are still to be found."

Biscuits and muffins reheat beautifully when they are tightly wrapped in aluminum foil and put into a moderate oven for about twenty minutes.
